Marines Retake Outpost Where Reds Wiped Out All U.S. Troops

UNDER FIRE—Two United Nations soldiers duck into a trench on a hill next to Old Baldy in Korea as they come under Communist Chinese fire. The background on top shows bits and splinters of trees still standing. The two are communications men trying to string wire which was ruined during a Red barrage in the bitter battle for Old Baldy. United States troops completely abandoned the strategic peak on the main invasion route to Seoul after three days of fighting.

Korean Ammo Fight Threatens To Involve Dem Policy Makers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Van Fleet-Pentagon dispute over ammunition shortages and conduct of the Korean War threatens today to erupt into a bitter controversy reaching all the way up to the policy makers of the Truman administration.

The authoritative story from several military sources is that:

1. Former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett was prodded by Army chiefs for almost a year before he ordered all-out ammunition production last November.

2. The Joint Chiefs of Staff—at the State Department's request—instructed Gen. James A. Van Fleet in May, 1951, to launch no general offensive into North Korea without clearance from the joint chiefs. Van Fleet has said he was stopped by orders.

3. The Army tailored its combat effort in Korea to conform to diplomatic decisions.

4. No records have been found at the Pentagon to support Van Fleet's statement he was "crying to turn me loose' to destroy the enemy in June, 1951—or to show he asked for clearance to stage an offensive into North Korea.

5. Ammunition stocks in the Far East have now reached the point where Gen. Mark W. Clark's Far Eastern Command is trimming orders on future deliveries.

6. The Army is over-producing some ammunition items and would like to cut back their production—but there is fear a hold-down order now would cause another outcry.

These reports—from high officers who asked that their names not be used—came as a Senate armed services subcommitte prepared to open a public inquiry Wednesday into Van Fleet's claims that the U. S. Eighth Army was seriously and sometimes critically short of ammunition during all the 22 months he commanded it in Korea.

The Van Fleet statements and the forthcoming Senate inquiry have stirred the Pentagon perhaps more deeply than anything since the bitter debate touched off two years ago by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's ouster as Far East commander. Whole squads of officers and clerical help have dropped their usual chores to prepare for the inquiry.

Slugfest Seen On Work Laws

Unions, Management Fail To Reach Accord

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Union labor and management squared off today for a slug-fest in the Ohio Legislature over changes in unemployment and workmen's compensation laws.

Failure to reach accord apparently doomed "agreed bills' backed by both, a practice often followed in previous sessions.

(Unemployment compensation covers workers unable to find jobs. Workmen's compensation pays employes who were injured on the job or who develop an illness due to work conditions.

Labor's built-in senator, Charles J. Carney (D-Mahoning), a CIO official, co-sponsored bills to boost jobless and workmen's compensation.

Four industry-backed bills to revise unemployment laws are pending. They bear hallmarks of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and the Ohio Manufacturers Association.

Representatives of the CIO, AFL and United Mine Workers reported their failure to reach agreement with industry after a series of conferences on benefits to injured workers.

They said industry made a "token offer' but asserted it "would have resulted in the average claimant receiving less money than he does under present law."

One of the measures passed and sent to the Senate by the House Thursday before the Legislature took its week-end adjournment would reduce mandatory bank examinations from two to one a year.

VFW Clubrooms Not Closed Until April 7

The Class D-4 permit suspension of Allen Reynolds post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is not effective until April 7. Meanwhile, the club will be open, George King, the manager, announced today.

According to F. M. Krebs, chairman of the state liquor commission, the permit suspension is for 15 days, from April 7 to midnight, April 21, on a charge of selling to non-members.

Sheep Escape As Trucks Collide Near New Garden

A number of sheep escaped and wandered over the countryside when trucks driven by Elmer Wurgler, 40, of Hanoverton and Linus Orr, 31, of North Jackson sideswiped on Route 9, one mile north of New Garden, at 7:30 a.m. today, causing the sheep-laden Wurgler vehicle to overturn.

Ike's Prestige Involved As Senate Prepares To Solidly Approve Bohlen

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Eisenhower's prestige directly involved, the Senate stood ready today to vote ringing approval of Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen's nomination as ambassador to Russia.

Barring unexpectedly lengthy debate which might delay a showdown, a rollcall was likely late in the day.

Critics faced an apparently crushing defeat in their efforts to head off an appointee who once served the Truman administration in a policy-making role.

They seemed likely to get only about a dozen of the Senate's 96 votes in their Republican party-splitting fight, despite a last-minute wave of telegrams opposing the nomination.

Eisenhower laid his prestige on the line yesterday with a news conference assertion that Bohlen was his personal choice and is the best qualified man for the Moscow job.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said this made the vote "a test of confidence" in Eisenhower.

The most vocal of Bohlen's opponents, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), mapped his course for the closing hours of Senate debate with the observation he was sure the President was "very serious when he says Bohlen is the best man."

"But it so happens I differ with him,' McCarthy said. "I have a duty to try to combat confirmation.'

He added he has "no remote hope of success.'

As the climax approached, eight senators stood publicly committed to the opposition.

Besides McCarthy, they included Republican Senators Bridges of New Hampshire, Dirksen of Illinois, Hickenlooper of Iowa, Malone of Nevada, Schoeppel of Kansas and Walker of Idaho, and Democratic Sen. McCarran of Nevada.

Welker, scheduled to lead off the day's debate, said he would vote against Bohlen because he believes the nominee's "long service to the Roosevelt-Truman foreign policies and his close relationships with the Acheson-Hiss clique in the State Department totally disqualified him from holding so vitally important post at so critical a time.'

Welker disputed the contention by Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles that Bohlen, a Russian-language expert and foreign service officer since 1929, is the best qualified man for the Moscow job.

"Mr. Bohlen, it seems to me, is typical of the various 'experts' who have made such an unholy mess of American foreign relations in the past decade, who essentially believe that the real way to get along with Russia is via the route of appeasement," Welker declared.

Welker said he would have favored appointing Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the Moscow post to serve "blunt and effective notice on the Kremlin that the road to appeasement is absolutely closed."

Sen. Taft's support of the nominee apparently was helping hold in line some Republicans who felt that it would have been better not to have a nominee so closely connected with the Truman administration.

Asphalt Ruling To Be Fought

Court Order May Delay Ohio Turnpike

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio Turnpike officials—snarled in court suits since the Legislature made a toll road possible—prepared today to fight a court order requiring asphalt bids.

Counsel for the turnpike commission started writing an appeal to the alternate bid ruling by the Second District Courts of Appeals.

Commission members agreed to hold a special meeting to discuss the latest woe in the history of the 241-mile Northern Ohio superhighway. And none could answer the biggest question of them all: Will this delay turnpike construction?

Chief Engineer T. J. Kauer said he didn't know.

One turnpike spokesman said it depended on how long an appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court takes.

Another commission official said it would not set back the planned completion date—September, 1955. He said the target date was set with such delays in mind.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes plans an immediate study of the court decision. It may have a wide impact on highway construction throughout Ohio resulting in "chaos and confusion," he said. County and township roads and city streets may be affected by the decision, he added.

The Court of Appeals, in ordering both concrete and asphalt bids be taken for the road, upheld two reports by its referee, Robert P. Duncan. He said Portland Cement or concrete asphalt would be suitable paving.

The court decided alternate bids "might save the commission many millions of dollars." It ruled since the two type of paving materials were basically the same in serviceability, "the action of the commission to accept bids on one type of concrete construction only would seem to be an unjustifiable discrimination and to prevent competitive bidding in the true sense."

Harrison At Town Hall Monday Night

The Sylvan Trails of Pennsylvania will be shown in colored movies by Hal Harrison, outdoor editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, at the final Town Hall meeting of the season Monday night at 8:15 in the Salem High School auditorium.

Mr. Harrison, an authority on wildlife and the author of several books on the subject, will narrate his own films.

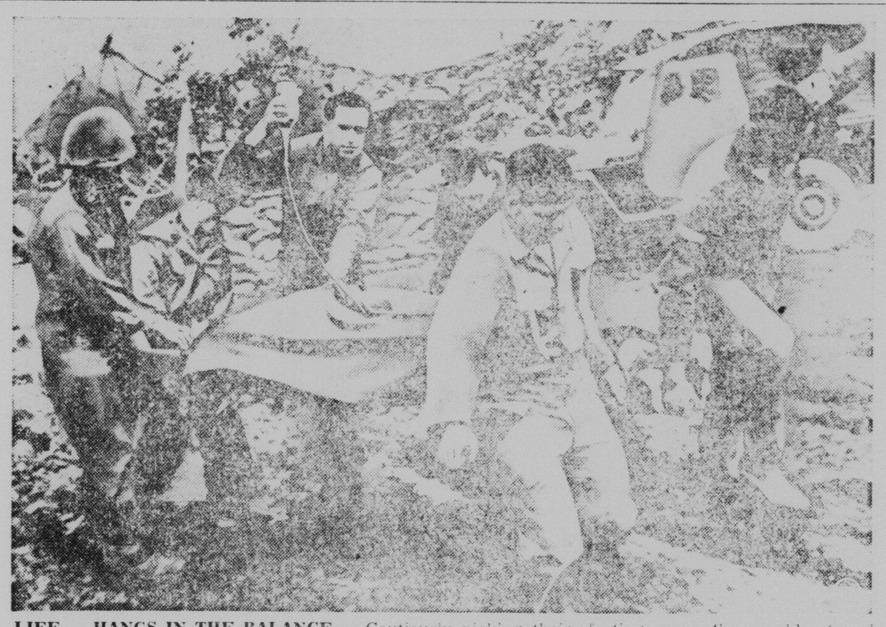

"Sylvan Trails," a saga of the Pennsylvania woods, shows intimate closeups of the wild animals and birds which Mr. Harrison was able to film as the result of painstaking efforts and through his knowledge of the trails and habits of the animals.

Producer Silent To Red Probers

Lazarus Won't List Film Backers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Congressmen investigating communism have drawn a refusal from the producer of the controversial film, "Salt of the Earth," to identify his partners.

When the grim-faced witness, Russian-born Simon Lazarus, 58, refused to say where the corporation's office is located, Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif) commented:

"Certainly that is in no way incriminating. This is an obvious misuse of the constitutional privilege."

Lazarus said he came to the United States in 1914, became a U. S. citizen in 1924, and came to California in 1925.

He testified he resigned nine days ago as president of Independent Productions Corp., which recently filmed "Salt of the Earth" at Silver City, N. M.

He denied that the Russian government or Communist party provided financial backing for the production.

He said the firm borrowed $90,000 for the film "from people, lots of people."

He added he does not know the affiliation of the contributors—"we didn't ask them."

So far as he knew, he said, the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union — expelled from the CIO after its officers refused to swear they weren't Communists—did not put up any money for the film.

Congressman Jackson named other officers of the corporation as Herbert Ganahal, vice president; Kathleen Sims, secretary; Rose Kolker, treasurer; and Robert Gannon, director.

Audit Finds Salem Okay, Harwood Says

J. Arch Harwood, Salem safety-service director, told 25 townspeople assembled in the Chamber of Commerce rooms for a meeting of the Salem Civic Committee last night that auditors making an audit of the city records have found nothing out of order.

He explained that a report has not yet been completed, but so far everything has been found in order.

Harwood also reported on the activity of the new Ohio pollution control law., including an article he had written on the measure. He explained that preparations for a new sewage disposal plant to be built in Salem is in conformity to the recent legislation.

He told the townspeople that the sewage rate to be added to water bills will decrease city indebtedness. Whereas a bond issue would only add debt to the city, he said, the new sewage tax would clear up the debt on the disposal plant in approximately eight years, allowing rates to be then reduced.

Asked what the state was doing in the pollution program, Harwood said it was leaving it to the municipalities to work out the problem.

One of the audience complained of the littered conditions of Salem streets on Sunday morning and asked if the city planned to hire a street cleaner. Harwood told her plans were underway for such a move in the future but not at present.

State Rests Murder Case

10 To Be Called In Sheriff-Killing Trial

WEST UNION, O. (AP)—The first of approximately 10 defense witnesses were to be called today at the first degree murder trial of Charles Eikleberry Jr., 25.

The state completed its case Thursday against the Antioch native who is charged with the roadside slaying of Adams County Sheriff Ben K. Perry Jan. 12.

Defense attorneys tried unsuccessfully to obtain dismissal of counts in the indictment which charge Eikleberry with the slaying of a police officer and with premeditated murder.

The defense lost its claim that Perry was not legally the sheriff at the time he was killed because his bond had not been filed within the prescribed time.

Attorneys Edgar H. Hale of Portsmouth and Elmer Spencer of Manchester claimed Perry's bond was not filed until Jan. 5, the first Monday in January, whereas the law requires it to be filed before that day.

Judge James W. Lang Jr., ruled, however, a Supreme Court ruling on the filing date was directive and not mandatory.

Defense attorneys were successful, however, in obtaining permission for Eikleberry to be taken to an abandoned farm near here in a search for some undisclosed evidence that might be used in his behalf.

The farm is one where Eikleberry and his companion, William Vandale of Marietta, are alleged to have hidden part of the time after the shooting of sheriff Perry.

Six Drivers Pay $210 On Patrol Charges

Traffic violations cost motorists $210 and costs in Mayor Harry M. Vincent's court yesterday. The violators were arrested by the Salem State Highway Patrol.

Largest fine went to L. C. Winston, 30, of Alliance who paid $100 and costs for driving alone on a temporary permit.

Others fined were Donald Jacob Nicely, 27, of Toledo, $25, overload; Roosevelt Tompkins, 44 of Bellaire, $20, reckless operation.

Paul R. Diehl, 30, of Williamsburg, Pa., $25, overload; George E. Shirley, 26, of Jeannette, Pa., $25, overload; and James Ray Wyckoff, 19, of 372 W. State St., $15, for driving an unsafe vehicle.

Vegas Regained After 10 Hours Of Fierce Battle

3,500 Chinese Seized Hill, Captured Or Killed All Defenders

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Marines tonight regained outpost Vegas from fired-up Chinese Reds who 24 hours earlier had wiped out all Leathernecks there in a surprise smash.

The Marines recaptured the Western Front outpost after 10 hours of bitter, costly hand-to-hand trench fighting.

A Marine regimental commander said the Chinese killed or captured every Leatherneck in small holding forces on Vegas and nearby Reno outposts when 3,500 Reds seized the positions in a surprise night attack.

The first Marine division troops secured the hill at 7:30 p. m., but mopping up operations continued two hours more on the upper slopes.

Destroyed 12-15 Units

The Marines reported they destroyed the effectiveness of from 12 to 15 Chinese companies—more than 2,000 troops, in the bloody, hand to hand fighting.

The commander leading the Marine assault on Vegas messaged:

"We are on the top, situation well in hand. Enemy has tried several attempts to reinforce and counterattack."

Col. L. W. Walt, Ft. Collins, Colo., a Marine regimental commander, said every Leatherneck on Vegas and Reno outposts when the Reds first is presumed either dead or taken prisoner.

The number of course, was withheld. Walt added:

"The Chinese took the position by mass force and mass formation which they can always do on an outpost like that when they want to pay the price. We are going to get it back. It's only a matter of when."

Blast Machine Gun Nests

The counterattacking Marines were blasting Chinese machine gun nests with tank fire.

Troops of the U. S. First Marine Division, clawing at the Reds in the lower trenches, jumped off at 6 p. m. under cover of withering rocket and tank fire in an effort to reach the top.

The Marines doggedly pushed up a trench network to the Chinese machine gunners. One nest was blasted by high velocity tank fire and a second was under fire, Associated Press Correspondent Bill Barnard reported from the front.

Chinese defenders at the top of Vegas sprayed the Marines with vicious machine gun and small arms fire. Barnard said the Leathernecks nearest the top still had 100 yards to go an hour after the counterattack opened.

The Reds had captured Vegas and nearby Reno in a fierce 3,500 man attack along a 5½ mile sector.

The Leathernecks had stormed up the height at noon in a daring daylight counterattack, but thundering Communist artillery fire pinned them down 100 yards from the top.

Communist and Marine big guns roared over Vegas, shrouded in the smoke of the crackling battle.

Reno, the second Marine outpost lost in the screaming Red attack, remained in Communist hands. The Chinese also clung to devastated Old Baldy, 52 miles north of Seoul, captured Wednesday from the U.S. Seventh Infantry Division.

Allied warplanes and artillery gouged the bloody, red dirt hill throughout the day. Airmen said the peak resembled "a bed of hot coals.'

Sharp fighting spread westward at sundown Thursday when a Chinese regiment struck at the 10 Marine outposts 25 miles southwest of Old Baldy. The jabs were thrown back everywhere except at Vegas and Reno.

Montgomery Talks With U. S. Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Field Marshal Montgomery comes to Washington today to be the White House guest of President Eisenhower and to confer with government leaders before starting on an extended tour of U. S. military bases.

The deputy supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe arrived in New York yesterday aboard the Queen Mary. At the Washington Airport this morning he was to be greeted by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, and given full military honors.

Viscount Montgomery then had a White House date with the President, who was his chief in World War II, followed by engagements at the Pentagon for lunch and with Secretary of State Dulles.

The noted British soldier will use the White House as his living quarters until April 2, when he will start a tour of military bases that will take him as far south as New Orleans

BUNN'S Good Shoes

Male Hair Styles

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Ladies, you've learned the art of staying young and lovely. Maybe there'll be more money in the bank for you now if you see that the man in your life is well-tressed, too.

I have always held that a gray-haired man looks distinguished, and a bald-headed geezer is a more romantic lover than a boudoir full of these curly-haired young male movie stars whose skulls are dandruff nests and who have to paste beaver fuzz on their chests to look virile.

Ten million American baldies say I'm right. But my wife says I'm crazy, and Albert the noted hairdresser, who isn't any kin, just says I'm wrong.

Albert, who operates a kind of masculine Fifth Avenue charm school for the weary business tycoon, says it is high time for the average man to steal a bit from the household budget and start peacocking himself up a bit.

"This is important both in terms of love and money," he said. "The American wife keeps her youth in middle age. She is a gorgeous strawberry or silver blonde. But her husband is a gray shadow who looks at least 15 years older. She loks like sister. He has worked hard and hasn't taken care of his appearance. So he looks like grandpa.

"But this is an age of youth and vigor. Men who are gray or bald find it harder to get promoted or land a new and better job.

"A wise man also should never lose his head — or his hair—over a woman. Because he will need both to get another one."

Kind of discouraging to us baldies. What can a man do?

"The same thing a woman does," said Albert. "He should adapt his hair style to his face."

"If he has a wide face, he should avoid close-cropped hair. It makes him look fatter. A fellow with Clark Gable ears shouldn't clip his hair short either. You can see why, yes?

"A man getting baldy may cover it by changing the angle he parts his hair. He shouldn't plaster it down. A few permanent waves may thicken it, too, and give it body. There are many ways to disguise thinning hair."

Albert's main thesis is that men today need beauty salons as much as women, and he says the smart ones are getting over their shyness about going to them.

"I will bet you that maybe one out of 25 men you meet today wears a toupee, or a piece of a toupee," he said. "You can wear a toupee and stand on your head with it on, go swimming, or take a shower. I have worn a toupee for four years myself, and my own mother hasn't noticed it."

Of course, Albert still has more hair of his own than he did when his mother first met him. You have to think of that.

Albert, an ebullient man with needle point moustaches, is an absolute enemy of gray hair.

"Who comes to me to get their hair tinted?" he exclaimed. "Wall Street brokers, cab drivers, a cement mixer, and TV stars. Thank heaven for TV. It has meant a lot to me.

"But I tinted the hair of a truck-driver who had been turned down for a job because he looked too old. He went right out and got another job at more than $85 a week. You know who else comes in to get their hair tinted? Many clergymen. It is important, they feel, that they don't look old and gray."

In Albert's emporium an executive can dictate his mail and have it typed while he sends his suit out to be pressed and he himself gets a whirpool bath for his aching feet, a manicure, a haircut and a tint job. He can also make long distance phone calls.

Life is really looking up for the tired business man, who now can come home and tell his wife, "Well, I certainly had a busy day at my beauty parlor. How do you like my new hair do, by the way? It's the latest in town."

Humphrey To Address AP Annual Luncheon

Landlord Topples Walls To Evict Tenants

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—A Mexican landlord found a sure-fire way to get rid of tenants who declined to check out of his apartment house, but yesterday it landed him in jail.

Carlos Solano was charged with ordering a wrecking crew to topple the walls of the building while the tenants were inside. Nine were injured.

Cub Pack 17 Has Mardi Gras

"Life In The Hawaiian Islands," April Theme

COLUMBIANA — Cub Pack 17 Boy Scouts, presented a mardi gras at its meeting in the Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening, staged in costumes with floats of flowers. The float bearing the king and queen was drawn by two lackeys and was accompanied by a court jester.

Special features of the remainder of the parade in costumes was a band with home-made instruments and the presentation of a hula dancer and a snake charmer. A sail boat was introduced for a reproduction of the Boston tea party.

Denner stripes were awarded Jimmie Yoder and David Mundy, and service stars to Donald Wisler and Edwin Altomare. Awards went to Robert Culp, lion badge and Robert Barger, wolf badge and one gold and one silver arrow point. David Garrod was received as a bobcat.

Guests at the pack meeting were committee members of the new Troop 40, Boy Scouts of the Methodist Church at East Fairfield. The April theme for Pack 17 will be "Life in the Hawaiian Islands." The planning committee for May is Mrs. Myron Starr, Mrs. George Stacey and Mrs. Samuel T. Jenkins.

Roger Fritch will be graduated into scouting at the Boy Scout court of honor to be held in the High School auditorium Thursday evening, April 9.

COLUMBIANA HIGH SCHOOL band wil give its annual spring concert in the High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday, April 10, under the direction of W. Gwynne Jenkins, instructor in instrumental music.

An acoustic ceiling has been placed in the former gymnasium of the Methodist Church, now part of the enlarged basement.

Sunset Temple Pythian Sisters wil have a benefit at the American Laundry office tomorrow, beginning at 10 a.m.

Arthur C. Huk, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Huk of 705 S. Main St., received his discharge at Norfolk, Va., March 10, from the U. S. Navy, in which he had served since September, 1948. He had graduated from Columbiana High School the preceding May. Most of his service was as an engineman-fireman on the seaplane tender, Valcour, in Atlantic and Mediterranean waters.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coughlin, proprietors of the coffee shop on S. Main St., have leased from John Ryan the dining room at Valley Golf Club and will take possession next Wednesday, April 1. They will continue their business in town.

The new cyclorama for the stage in the High School auditorium, purchased recently by the board of education, has arrived and has been installed for the spring concert this evening of the vocal music department of the schools.

DON McBRIDE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McBride of 126 N. Pearl St., captain of the 1952-53 Columbiana Clippers, who was named by the Associated Press to the All-State Class B third team will be graduated this spring from Columbiana High School and plans to enter Ohio University at Athens next fall. McBride with three other Columbiana seniors, Larry Bailey, Larry McVay and Bob Justice, visited the University a few days ago and met former Clipper stars, Chick McBride, brother of Don, and Sam Greiner, juniors at the university.

Lieut. Richard Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick W. Goodwin of Quincy Ave., is home on a postgraduate leave after graduation from U. S. Air Force Officer Candidate School, Lackland Base, San Antonio, Texas. Lt. Goodwin was graduated from Columbiana High School in 1947 and later from Bowling Green State University. He will be united in marriage with Miss Sally Koch in the Presbyterian Church at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Bolton (R-Ohio), whose company last week bought the Dover Reporter from Hoopingarner and his associates. Hoopingarner was the paper's publisher for 33 years.

Bar Heavy Trucks From Elbe Bridge

BERLIN (AP)—Time caught up today with a U. S. Army-built "temporary" bridge over the Elbe River on the only Allied road link with Red-encircled West Berlin. Soviet zone Communist police barred trucks of over 12 tons weight from the eight-year-old wooden span.

The ban at first caused fears that it might presage a repetition of the 1948-49 Soviet blockade of West Berlin but later reports eased the apprehension. Allied officials said the restriction might slow down the city's highway lifeline slightly.

Less than one-fourth of the trucks feeding West Berlin are rated at 12 tons in weight or more. But many truckers have added two and sometimes three trailers. The Communist-zone police apparently were permitting these drivers to haul their trailers across one by one.

West German traffic officials said East zone police reported the restriction was temporary, until workmen could shore up weakened timbers of the bridge.

California Hopes U. S. Will Pay Back Old Loan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California hopes to get back, with interest, the $800,000 it advanced the United States government in 1861 and 1862 to help it pay its Civil War soldiers.

Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown told the Los Angeles Bar Association yesterday that interest has expanded the original loan to seven million dollars, but that attorneys' fees will cut this down considerably.

When the litigation was started in 1882 there were only a few lawyers in state employ, so private attorneys were hired.

States with similar claims long since have received their money, he added.

The Name's Familiar

One of our favcrite people, Inez Robb, was saying in her newspaper column the other day she was helping to promote an organization called American Friends of Russian Freedom Inc.

This is an excellent and blameless organization, inspired by the finest motives and dedicated to helping Russians find freedom. But something about the name is disquieting.

It scunds like the names of organizations which people like Inez Robb supported at one time or another in former years. There always was the same blameless motive—to help in some good work, some worthy cause. No malice was expressed or implied. No mischief was intended. But what happened?

Things changed. Some of the do-good organizations were revealed to have been set up as fronts by do-badders. Some were played for suckers. Some were misled. But all were discredited. And their joiners—even those who happened to attend meetings out of idle curiosity—will be busy the rest of their lives explaining to congressional investigators that they were innocent bystanders, or at worst, easy marks.

Moral: Never join anything which will put you on the spot if things change. Better to be investigated for suspicious indifference than suspicious interest.

News From Old Baldy

It is being explained officially and unofficially that abandonment of a hilltop in Korea called Old Baldy is of no special importance to the United Nations. The explanation needs an explanation.

If this hilltop must be retaken because its possession by the enemy cannot go unchallenged, it is very special importance to the United Nations. Retaking it will consume lives. The Chinese wanted it badly enough to pay a heavy price in lives — even at the Asiatic discount rate. They will want to keep it badly enough to exact a heavy price for its recapture.

It was this trading of lives for position which had made Americans bitter about the Korean war before the advent of winter slowed down the fighting. It was this kind of stand-off warfare which made the Korean war an issue in the 1952 national election.

There are no hilltops in Korea worth fighting for, unless they represent vastly more than a temporary advantage in military position.

That has not been made clear to the American people—that vastly more is involved in Korea than temporary advantages in military position.

If the Eisenhower administration cannot discover a way to explain what is involved and to make it credible, it can expect no more enthusiasm for a stalemated war of position than the Truman administration was able to arouse.

In The Spring

Young men's fancies still turn lightly to thoughts of love in the spring, and so do the fancies of older men.

But they also turn to more serious problems than love—problems like fear and uncertainty.

A notion persists that if it weren' for those ominous men in the Kremlin there would be no fear and uncertainty. That's debatable. But it would be worth while to see what would happen if the ominous men in the Kremlin disappeared.

Everybody loves a fat man, so let's start with Georgi Malenkov, a bona fide fat man. Let's love him to pieces.

Let's have the "Voice of America," if it can get the mush out of its mouth, declare that Georgi Malenkov is the best friend the free people of the West ever had. Let's make up prizes and awards to give to Russia's fat man for his jollity and good will.

Let's give a twist to that public - relations classic which converted the original John D. Rockefeller from a sour pussed old penny-pincher into a lovable old philanthropist who shed shiny new dimes like a dog sheds hair.

Let's make the head of the Communist conspiracy an international Casey Stengel.

Let's think of whimsical anecdotes about Molentov ,Vorishilov, Beria and all the others. This would make their ominous aspect disappear. When Pravda, Isvestia and the rest of the Russia press began to report what was being said, some other things surely would disappear, too —notably, Malenkov, Molotov, Vorishilov, eria and those cheerful vultures of peace and good will at the United Nations.

The earth is having its face changed in some places—but it isn't very uplifting.

A wedding cake of a Chicago couple was in the shape of a ship. It didn't take reception guests long to sink it.

With better driving weather coming, it's almost time for the counties to close up the regular roads and open the detours.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

Keep thy heart with diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.
—Proverbs 4:23.

It is the service of today that carries our future in its arms The greatest act is small if done for self and the smallest act is great if done for God and humanity. What the world needs today is consecrated character, and that only comes from loyalty and service.
—J. Hamilton Dawson

Today's Message

All about us today we find economic, political, social, industrial and spiritual confusion. In the midst of this chaotic disorder, voices everywhere are crying for help and for a means of escape. The only answer that one finds sufficient to meet those needs comes from the divine personality of God. His voice comes today, over the ether waves of time and experience, as real as ever in the past: "I am the Way, the Truth, the Life . . . if any man comes unto me I will not cast him aside . . . If you ask of me you shall receive . . . If you seek me." you shall find me."

True Religion is not basically a system of beliefs to be cherished; nor a set of forms to be observed; nor is it primarily an emotional experience that one might pass through during the span of life. It utilizes all of these but they are definitely secondary. Religion is not learning to live. It is living — living today in all relationships that go to make up human existence. True Religion is loving God with one's whole body, mind and soul, and that love finding its fulfillment in loving one's neighbor as one's self. Such is Christ's Gospel of charity and of justice. Such is the Gospel that will bring peace and brotherhood to all mankind.
—ELMER C. LEWIS
Methodist Church
Rutherford, N. J.

Today's Prayer

Almighty God and Father of mankind, grant us remission of sins against Thee and Thy commandments. Consecrate us anew to the citizenship of Thy Kingdom, and unite us in the brotherhood of Christianity. Amen.

Competition Revived

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Chrysler Cuts Refute Argument For Controls

The American system of free competition has been vindicated not only by the removal of government controls but by the announcement that one large motorcar manufacturer, without regard to what its competitors might do, has boldly reduced prices.

For many years now the American people have had it dinned in their ears that American industry is controlled by trusts which fix prices and that a few large companies, by dominating the field, control the market for their products. Democrats have inveighed against what they called "oligopoly" and demagogues in trade-union forums have denounced large business as monopolistic.

The demonstration which the Chrysler Corporation has just given effectively refutes any such argument. For the announcement of a price decrease does not necessarily mean that all companies will follow suit, through some of them may do so.

This would not be the first time that a price reduction by one manufacturer has been met with the statement by others that its own products were already low enough or in line with the market.

The significance of the Chrysler action is that the public generally has been asked to believe, ever since price controls were imposed a decade or more ago that removal of restrictions on price or output necessarily leads to higher prices to the consumer.

Again and again the Democratic administrations have insisted on retaining laws to continue price restrictions so as really to influence the course of the economy while opponents have argued for freedom from such restraints.

Today, as most of the controls are being lifted, there are some products and raw materials which have gone up slightly in price while others have come down.

Sometimes price rises are necessary after controls are lifted so as to correct inequities in the cost picture which couldn't be cured under controls. But, in the long run, prices are brought down as efficiency with new machinery makes quantity production less and less expensive.

Obviously the Chrysler company thinks it can sell more cars at the lower prices than it did when output was limited by government control.

But the true importance of the price reduction by the Chrysler Corporation is that it emphasizes the return of a supply - and - demand situation in America. This is the healthiest sign that has appeared on the business horizon for many years. It is an application of the basic principle that no monopoly should be permitted to hold up the consumer by a concerted arrangement of competitors to fix prices.

Unfortunately, there are monopolistic factors that are not covered by law. Thus, a nation - wide bargaining instrument in the form of a big labor union nowadays can, in effect, fix the price of important products by fixing the labor cost. The larger companies can absorb the extra expense, but the smaller ones often cannot. Yet they are expected to pay the same rates of wages as the bigger fellows. This results in forcing smaller companies to beg the larger ones to take them over, and that's one way competition is cut down.

The automobile industry is a sharply competitive industry and in its history many large companies have been built out of smaller ones while still others have fallen by the wayside.

The entry of new competitors has also been proved possible in the auto industry notwithstanding the leadership of a few large companies. The Kaiser - Frazer company entered the field in recent years and only this week purchased the Willys - Overland Company, thus making the combined operation larger and more efficient than either of the predecessor companies had been before.

The argument for the capitalistic system, namely, that it produces goods at low cost to the consumer, pays high wages, and gives individual initiative a chance to be rewarded — is bitterly attacked not only by Communists here and abroad but by radicals in America and socialists in Britain who argue that a state monopoly is more desirable than a privately owned system.

The effort to bring about a system of public ownership of certain industries, which has succeeded in part in Great Britain, has been for many decades sponsored by so-called liberal and radical groups in America, too. Indeed a movement to take over the steel industry has had support inside the Democratic administration from officials who threatened that unless the steel companies increased their plants, they might find the government doing it for them.

Steel capacity has been increased by the industry itself in the last few years under government pressure, but it remains to be seen whether idle plants built at high cost will plague the industry as it tries to bring its prices down when demand falls off.

There is no effective substitute for a freely operated competitive economy.

One Man's Opinion

We are gratified at Malenkov's discovery that Stalin skipped a page in history. The old boy had us down for starting a war in Korea but had neglected to mention that we helped win a war in Europe.

Probably pure oversight on his part. Any man would be apt to forget to mention 11 billion dollars worth of lend-lease, an Allied High Command and the best brawn and brains of our people.

Up until Malenkov's regime, the Soviet citizenry had been told that they did it all by their little selves. And it's no wonder they got the idea they were supermen.

But as our diplomacy at the time of the aid was magnificently mediocre the Soviet bosses never had to tell their people anything different. The butter, guns and guys kept coming just the same.

Now that they're admitting we helped win the war they must be getting ready to ask for more lend-lease. Perhaps to lick up in Korea.

The groom is always called the lucky man. In some cases, maybe the gal's father is being overlooked.

But He Couldn't Be Any Deader

Group Opinion In Washington

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

I was arguing with an editor about the Bohlen nomination and we both stopped short as we came up with the central trouble of personnel in a free society. Men like Stalin or Hitler never are involved with such problems: they make the decisions and then try to find the men to carry them out. If a man fails, he might get killed for the failure.

Sokolsky

In a free society, everything is achieved by the compromises which are inevitable in the pursuit of a meeting of the minds among many on a team, or on a group of teams, or even with the opposition.

This is what we are now experiencing in Washington, with the added feature that the emphasis is on group decisions. All sorts of advisory committees seem to be organized for the purpose of analyzing data and advising the president.

PART OF this function is the proper authority of Congress under the Constitution; the responsibility for decision rests solely on the president, no matter who advises him. Yet, the tendency to find a meeting of the minds is so marked that Gen. Eisenhower may go down in American history as "The Great Compromiser," just as Lincoln has come down as "The Great Emancipator."

Perhaps because the Republicans have so narrow a majority in both the Senate and the House, the administration tends to seek compromises with the Democrats to avoid an actual defeat on a measure, particularly in the Senate where the shift of two votes could defeat any Republican proposal.

For instance, the Republican party has been denouncing the inhumanity of Yalta for eight years. Every Republican orator promised that once his party came into power, something would be done about the obnoxious decisions made at that conference.

President Eisenhower supported a resolution of denunciation and one was actually prepared by the State Department.

It was so written that the Democrats could have accepted it, which meant it was watered down so as not to repudiate Roosevelt, Truman, Marshall and Acheson. In other words, it was meaningless. Naturally, the Republicans rejected so complete a repudiation of their history and platform. The resolution was permitted to die.

IN THE MATER of Charles E. Bohlen's appointment as ambassador to Soviet Russia, the opposition to him among Republicans ran about 75 per cent.

The reasons are many, but cannot be discussed in this article because the evidence is not available to me at the moment of writing and I decline, in this column, to devote myself to recriminations about individuals unless provable data are at hand. Undoubtedly much of it will come out sooner or later.

The rejection of Bohlen could have been a repudiation of the methods, procedures, and personnel of the State Department under Roosevelt and Truman.

The Democrats therefore fought for Bohlen; the Republicans were faced by an immediate attack on Gen. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for their compromises.

Republican leadership is not ready to do this or to meet such a fight with a majority of only one. The Republican party, therefore, bowed to the wishes of the Democrats and to the principle of compromise.

In the matter of Great Britain, something was agreed upon concerning aid to Britain in some new form. What it is is being kept a deep, dark secret. But a committee on the subject has been appointed, headed by Lewis Douglas, a Democrat, who served under both Roosevelt and Truman.

He has been ambassador to Great Britain and was so extraordinarily popular that it might be said that not since Walter Hines Page has any American been regarded as so wonderful a friend of the British.

Undoubtedly this was a masterful achievement. Yet, when a Republican president appoints a committee to "re-examine the nation's foreign ecoromic policy and recommend changes required to strengthen the free world," the Republicans would prefer one of their own and not one so closely associated with the British.

Perhaps they should be satisfied with Douglas because of his outstanding ability, as they might be satisfied with Bohlen because of his proficiency in the Russian language.

Actually they are wearying of compromises in principle and personnel and an explosion might be expected any day.

That it has not happened thus far is due to Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Wilton B. Persons, the president's congressional liaison.

Spring Training

By TRUMAN TWILL

Last weekend, I opened spring training in advance. This will be done by millions of other winterized softies some weekend in the near future when the season is further advanced.

From some Friday night to some Monday morning, blisters, strained muscles and torn ligaments will be shared in a nationwide community of suffering.

Jokes will be made about it in newspapers and over the air. Rubbing liniment will be sold in gallon lots. There will be a few fatalities and many bed patients. And there will be a moral.

Those of us who do work which requires no more muscular exercise than is required to get to the water cooler and back forget easily that it still takes physical energy to get the world's real work done.

Except for a couple of days a year when we try our hand at it and get blisters and sprains for our pains, we forget that we are out of the running as far as actual work is concerned.

While it would be theoretically possible for us to get into shape, the attempt would kill most of us before we could compete successfully for a living. And many of us wouldn't even have a theoretical chance. We're not the right types.

We'd be laughed off the job in a steel mill, if they didn't carry us off first. One day on a farm would guarantee us two weeks in a hospital.

A labor-gang boss would give us our walking papers before the sun came up. We couldn't hustle freight on a loading dock, shovel snow in a blizzard, erect steel for a new building, lay up bricks on a construction project, or operate a power shovel.

We couldn't tend estates, build highways, trim trees, shove lumber, change tires, clean wallpaper, herd cattle, drill for oil, or hire on as a deckhand on a cruise ship.

Nothing contributes more generously to a sense of inadequacy than the spring training indulged in annually by millions of us softies who get carried away by the sight of a few crocuses in a snowdrift.

We shouldn't be permitted out of the house when these impulses strike us, and this is to advise all and sundry to beware when the season is further advanced.

Sit quietly inside the house and admire spring from the inside out. Do not pick up a shovel. Shun rakes. If the impulse to improve on nature grows too powerful to be resisted, stroll about slowly outside.

This will be sufficient to induce a state of near-exhaustion, but far short of the acute exhaustion which results from manual labor, to cay nothing of sprains and pains.

All I did was dig a duck pond big enough to admit three ducks, spade a strip in the garden and erect a short strip of fence, including the digging of three postholes. While lying in bed afterward, I figured this would have represented about half a day's work for a handyman.

A handyman would be expected to work the other half day, and all the succeeding days. It will be April before I can tie my shoelaces.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Palace Passes

Grande Central Palace, New York, famed to people all over the United States for generations as a great exposition hall, will be taken over by the government as an office building for the U.S. Revenue and Tax Department. A lot of people who picked their yachts there may now have to come in and consider selling them.

Hearing that a government bureau has taken over Grand Central Palace is like getting news that Pandora's Box has been sold for a filing cabinet or that Alice in Wonderland has been taken over by a budget bureau.

It has been a glamorous institution to which millions flocked to dream dreams among the deluxe yachts, limousines, rose gardens, indoor fishing brooks and fairy lands of business and pleasure.

It has been almost as much a part of New York as the Pennsylvania and Grande Central Stations, Radio City, the Statue of Liberty and the man whose stiff shirt lights up to advertise a cigar. People would not be much more amazed to hear that Washington had taken over Central Park to afford room for all the federal investigations or that the tower of the Empire State Building had been closed to all except federal employes. Exit fantasy fun, beauty and glamor. Enter office files, adding machines, busy telephones and the world's largest collection of tax forms.

We suggest that Washington keep something of the traditional exhibition spirit in the building, with an annual de luxe showing of latest model tax blanks . . . a summer showing of refund applications and a fall and winter exhibition of what the public can expect in the line of smart typewriters, carbon paper and office water coolers. With some booths along the following line:

1—Headache Supplies. See the latest demonstrations of up-to-the-minute headaches. Help yourself to free aspirin samples.

2—Sportsmen's Exhibit. Take home a booklet on the rifle that will keep you in squirrel meat when taxes have taken your last dime. Examine our Small Businessmen's Canoe, ideal for retreat in the woodland lakes when you are sick of it all. Examine the new Portable Shanty, for use when you take to the hills.

3—Woodland Camp. Note the mountain brook in which the rainbow trout hiding behind a rock have been replaced by an average income taxpayer, hiding under a lily pad.

4—Boating Department. No yachts. Just a rowboat in which a taxpayer may undergo a quiz and at the same time try out the newest lifesavers, waterwings, resuscitation devices, oars, etc.

5—Outboard Motors. See the latest invention, an outboard motor that can be attached to a taxpayers' back as he struggles with his tax blank. (It won't get him through any faster, but gives him a chance to blame everything on the carburetor.)

6—Garden Exhibit. Prize floral arrangements for beat-up taxpayers in upper brackets. Sunken gardens for sunken people. Lawn statuary featuring the symbolic group, "Income, Outgo and No Funds." See the prize lily named for Joe Deakes, the fellow who tried to leave something for the wife and family despite the estate taxes! Observe the Einstein Dahlia, named in honor of the taxpayer who can understand the tax blank without CPA assistance.

An electric ice-box with a brain is now announced. . . . It can outsmart the fellow who sneaks around for a late snack and hide the ice cubes after the third martini. . . .It masterminds the refrigerator, the announcement says, regulating the temperature, and taking care of the defrosting and keeping the food under inspection at all times. . . . But can it throw out the plate of leftover spinach after 72 hours?

"The Greatest Show on Earth" won the award as the best movie of 1952 and it would now seem up to Ringling Brothers to vote an Oscar to the Academy of Motion Picture Arts for the best performance of the year.

Milwaukee can now sing it, "The home of the free and the land of the Braves."

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on the 5th day of March, 1953, Natural Gas Company of West Virginia filed with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio its application for permission to increase the rate charged by it for natural gas sold to its customers in Ohio for industrial purposes. The substance and prayer of said application are as follows:

That the rate now charged by said company for natural gas sold for industrial use is set out in the schedule on file with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio designated P.U.C.O. No. 1, as follows:

$ .47 per 1,000 cubic feet.

PROMPT PAYMENT DISCOUNT:

Bills for gas service will be rendered monthly and are due payable on or before the 20th day of the month succeeding that in which gas was delivered. Bills paid within this period are subject to a discount of Two Cents (2c) per thousand cubic feet, provided all previous just bills, as well as the current bill, are paid in full.

That by reason of increases in the cost of gas purchased; increases in labor rates; and increases in other operating expenses, said rates are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the service rendered, and are unjust and unreasonable;

That said company seeks to have established for the sale of natural gas in the State of Ohio for industrial use, the rates set out in the schedule attached to said application, marked Exhibit No. 2, as follows:

$ .50 per 1,000 cubic feet;

MINIMUM CHARGE;

One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50), net, per month;

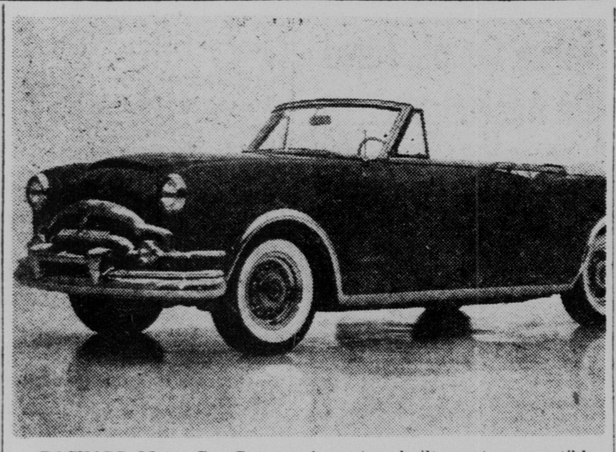

DELAYED PAYMENT CHARGE:

The above rates are net. Bills for gas service will be rendered monthly and are due and payable upon presentation. All bills not paid on or before the 20th day of the month succeeding that in which gas was consumed are subject to a delayed payment charge of 5 per cent on amounts up to and including $20.00, with a minimum delayed payment charge of Ten Cents. (10c).

That said applicant proposes in the near future to apply to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for natural gas sold to consumers in the State of Ohio other than for industrial purposes;

That said applicant prays for a finding of this Commission that the rates now in effect for natural gas sold fo industrial use are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the service rendered therefore, and are unjust and unreasonable, and that the rates set out in the above proposed schedule are just and reasonable; and for permission to make the same effective at the earliest possible date.

PACKARD Motor Car Company's custom built sports convertible, the Caribbean, a new model in a line of luxury Packard cars being shown at Gray Motor Sales, Inc., 292 W. State St. It is the first appearance of this car in the Salem area.

The Caribbean is one of several special models Packard introduced this year as the company returns to the custom luxury car field. The addition of the new cars will aid Packard's program calling for an 80 percent increase in car sales over 1952. The Caribbean has wire wheels, and carries the fifth wheel on a continental tire mount at the rear of the trunk. It has an air scoop on the bonnet which is a part of the cooling system as well as a styling feature. The new sports car is powered with an 180 horsepower Packard engine.

Armed Patrol Seen 1½ Miles Off Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—An armed three-man patrol which apparently originated on Russia's Big Diomede Island in the Bering Straits approached to within a mile and a quarter of American territory two weeks ago, a National Guard colonel has revealed.

The incident was reported last night by Col. Larry Johnson, adjutant of the Alaska Guard, who said the patrol was first sighted proceeding across the ice toward Little Diomede Island, owned by the United States.

Eskimo scout battalion members quickly manned defense and lookout positions, Johnson said, and the trio returned to Big Diomede, three miles distant.

The Eskimos said that two of the men were wearing white uniforms and carried a submachine gun and rifle and the third, in dark clothing, was not visibly armed.

The incident, which occurred March 12, is the first such case reported.

Errol Flynn, Ex-Wife Named In Tax Debts

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Errol Flynn and his former wife, Mrs. Nora Eddington Haymes, have been named in income tax liens for $820,572.89 for the years 1945-46-47.

The liens were filed in the county recorder's office, where it was said they are valid against any property in Los Angeles County owned by Flynn and his ex-wife, now the wife of singer Dick Haymes.

Flynn's income tax debt was listed as $407,839.92, and Mrs. Haymes' as $412,731.97.

Reds Filibuster On Italian Law Changes

ROME (AP)—A left-wing filibuster against government-sponsored election law changes droned into its second continuous day in the Italian Senate today. The talk marathon promised to last at least until nightfall.

Bleary-eyed but still vocal, Communist and fellow traveling Socialist senators took the floor one after the other to stall further action on the election measure.

The proposed law would give bonus seats to any party or bloc of parties winning 51 per cent of the votes in the forthcoming general elections, thus insuring winners of a stronger majority.

The bill was approved by the lower house two months ago after similar Red filibuster tactics failed. During the stormy lower-house sessions, fist fights and brawls broke out several times on the chamber floor.

More African Natives Accept Christianity, Church Unit Told

Superstition is being traded for Christianity among the natives in Africa, according to the findings of Mrs. Chloe Kelly, state secretary of the Ohio Christian Women's Fellowship, who was guest speaker at the meeting of 55 Salem fellowship members Wednesday night in the Christian Church.

Mrs. Calvin Fuller presided over the meeting and devotions led by Mrs. Virginia Courtney paid tribute to "The Beauty of the Earth."

Using "Africa—The Open Door" as her topic, Mrs. Kelly, who was introduced Mrs. Darrel Rowlands, outlined the work of the first missionaries who had so many barriers to overcome and compared the past to the present.

Sleeping sickness, swamp fever and malaria were so prevalent that medical missionaries were needed first, it was pointed out.

The travel was slow because of the mountainous terrain and rivers.

There was no written language, all communication had to be oral and it was difficult to overcome the mental and spiritual darkness and the fear that kept the natives from attending church because they thought their families would drown them if they did so, she said.

Much progress has been made through missionaries because once the natives throw off their superstitions and witchcraft they become ardent workers for Christianity. Spencer Austin, director of missionary resources and a native preacher baptised 1,962 natives in two days, when the natives found that they hand't suffered by leaving their superstitions behind them.

Mrs. Kelly stated that commerce is increasing the population of cities like Leopoldville where natives constantly are trekking in. The most important work here is combating communism which is moving in rapidly. More missionaries are needed to steer the natives straight in their moral problems and to help those who have gone berserk over the high wages they earn in the thriving metroplis and don't know how to manage.

In still other places, she said, more missionaries are needed to work with the down trodden and poor, the ones who wonder "if the whites don't love us — or don't love Him?"

The speaker made a plea for these Africans who need help with government - backing because the next five years will determine whether Africa goes Christian or Communistic. She said it is up to us to promote Christianity by sending more missionaries. The gates are open for our teachings.

Members of the Sarah Group, with Mrs. Mary Borton as leader, were hostesses.

Separate group meetings will be held April 8 and the next fellowship meeting will be a breakfast May 27.

Garden Study Club To Meet Monday

Members attending the meeting of the Garden Study Club Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Frederick Koenreich on E. Pershing St. are to take plants to exchange and an unwrapped white elephant gift to be auctioned off by the hostess.

Mrs. Louis Weirick will discuss "How to Grow Orchids in Your Own Home." Plans for joining the Federation of Women's Clubs will be discussed.

New Waterford Play Scheduled Tonight

The senior class of New Waterford High School will present its annual class play, a three - act comedy entitled "That's My Boy" tonight at 8 in the High School auditorium.

There will be special entertainment between acts. The play is under the direction of Richard Greenwalt, instructor of English at the High School.

Included in the cast of "That's My Boy" are Howard Black, Barbara Hampson, Joyce McGaffic, Barbara Michalak, Frances Lattanzio, Patricia Mackall, Dale Dyke, Bonnie Hill, George Cunningham, John Taylor, Earl Bacon, Sam Maple, Janis Unger and Doris Hull.

Junior Garden Clubs Hold Discussions

Button gardens and discussion on wildflower conservation interested fifth and sixth grade members of the Junior Garden Clubs sponsored by the Garden Study Club, Tuesday in McKinley School and Wednesday in Fourth Street School.

McKinley Club

Bobby Potter presided at the Tuesday meeting of the McKinley School Junior Garden Club. Mrs. Don Harvey, the advisor, assisted by Mrs. William Lowry, brought growing sweet potatoes for display in the homerooms.

Seed germination was discussed, as was the flower of the month, the jonquil. Tom Lease reported on wildflower conservation, and button gardens were made with the assistance of Mrs. Weirick. Mrs. Lowry discussed the scrapbooks each child is making, and posters of certain wildflowers were viewed.

Seeds will be distributed to all children of the school at the meeting April 28 and reports will be given on Johnny Appleseed and the legend of the dogwood.

Fourth Street Club

Kay Kuhl, secretary of the Fourth Street Club, read a paper on wildflower conservation. In the discussion on wildflowers it was pointed out that some species were used by the Indians for food, and that some roots have medicinal properties.

Mrs. Louis Weirick, Mrs. Hilles Linton and Mrs. James Smallwood were in charge. The topic of the day was "Enjoy Our Wild Flowers, Not Destroy." Button gardens made by the youngsters were judged by their instructors. The poster of the month made by Judy Miller was exhibited. The next meeting will be April 22.

Socialite Club Has Scotch Bridge Session

Scotch bridge entertained members of the Socialite Club at their party Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Krause on W. Pershing St.

Two guests included Mrs. Robert Brooks of Youngstown and Miss Sally Strank of East Palestine. Prizes in the games went to Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Gayle Paxson. At the next party, April 8, Mrs. William Keck will entertain at her home on the Sebring-Pine Lake Rd.

St. Paul Members To See Colored Slides

The unmarried men and women of St. Paul Parish will have a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the school basement.

Features will be a "Question Box' for discussion of religious problems, and colored slides taken by ex-veteran Frank Schmid on his furloughs at various points of interest in Europe will be shown.

Bill Scullion is committee chairman.

NAMED TO DEAN'S LIST

Jerry M. Harroff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Harroff of 774 E. Sixth St. has won a place on the University of Cincinnati dean's lists, according to Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the university. Harroff is a pre-junior in mechanical engineering in the university's Colege of Engineering.

He entered the university when a freshman as a Mullins Corporation scholarship holder.

CHOOSES SERMON TOPIC

Rev. Harry Lichy, student pastor of Highland Christian Church, has chosen the theme, "Into Thy Hands' for the worship service Palm Sunday at 11 a.m. Rev. E. L. Greer will be the guest minister for Good Friday services which start at 8 p.m., April 3.

Area Scouting Leaders Hear Camping Association President

"Teach girls how to become good citizens in the out-of-doors," was stressed by Miss Catherine T. Hammett, president of the National Camping Association, when she conducted a Girl Scout-sponsored all day training session in outdoor activities Thursday in the Methodist Church.

Miss Julia Peterkin, community and camp consultant on the national Girl Scout staff, was also present and assisted in the workshop program.

About 60 adults registered in scouting, from Salem, Columbiana, Washingtonville, Leetonia and Damascus, attended the meeting and took part in the various work projects.

Miss Hammett said there is a great need for educating the girls, and general public as well, in taking proper care of picnic sights and parks. Fires must be built only in designated places and always put out before leaving the scene. All who use public parks or private spots with permission, should feel the responsibility of leaving the grounds and surroundings clean and ready for the next party. Good outdoor habits should be formed early and scout leaders can, through their programs, teach and set examples of "outdoors citizzenship."

The well known authority on camping activities told how benefits of outdoor programs can be realized through fun and adventure. She demonstrated the use of the compass and taught the women to tie various kinds of knots and to do lashing with rope.

Songs particularly suited to hiking and camping were taught to the group.

At the close of the session, Mrs. J. Brooke Votaw, camp chairman, accompanied Miss Hammett and Miss Peterkin to Salem's own Camp Merrydale to see the improvements made for the 1953 camp season which starts June 8 and ends August 30.

Mrs. Vaughn Nichols, training chairman of the Salem Council of Girl Scouts, entertained Miss Hammett and Miss Peterkin when some of the leaders and board members met in her Fair Ave. home for a social time in the evening.

Damascus Cub Scout Troop Gets Charter

The charter for Cub Scout troop No. 78 of Damascus, was presented to Mrs. George Rogers, president of the Goshen Union Mothers Club and the sponsoring organization, by Harold Duryee at its first pack meeting Wednesday evening at Goshen High School.

Nineteen cubs received their Bobcat pins and three their Bear awards.

Raymond Danklef, chairman of the committee was in charge of the meeting and W. D. Cobbs and Ralph Moore committee members assisted.

Den mothers are Mrs. Charles Roberts, Mrs. Ralph Moore and Mrs. Raymond Danklef. Assistant den mothers are Mrs. LaVerne Owens, Mrs. Russell Doyle and Mrs. George Rogers.

"Westward Ho" was this month's theme and an exhibit of products made by the cub scouts during den meetings was shown.

Mrs. Schuster Fetes Friends At Card Session

Miss Minnie Schuster of Newgarden St. entertained a group of friends Thursday night.

Prizes in the 500 games were won by Mrs. Kendall Ingram, Mrs. Roy Yeager and Mrs. L. C. Phillips. The April 9 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Phillips of 240 W. State.

Homeworth Eastern Stars Have Session

Ruth's station, occupied by Mrs. Wiliam McCoy, was honored at Tuesday night's meeting of the Homeworth Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. McCoy read the story of Ruth's life as recorded in the Bible and an article, "In the Barley Fields," by Abbie S. C. Engle, pertaining to a period in Ruth's life, was read by Mrs. Howard Brobst.

Recognition was given to visitors who had served at this station featured a solo, "Were You There?" by Mrs. Virgil Jackson.

Decorations in keeping with the evening's theme, including yellow snapdragons and ageratum, stood before the matron's station and also centered the buffet table when refreshments were served in the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. William Haymaker, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cover and Mrs. Ethel Hahn.

Guests were from Alliance and Minerva chapters.

Lend A Hand Club Elects Officers

Mrs. Roland Leach of Leetonia was elected president and Mrs. Lynn Ferguson of the Greenford Rd. was elected secretary-treasurer when nine members of the Lend A Hand Club met Thursday evening in the Washingtonville home of Mrs. Hazen Hunter.

The hostess prize was won by Mrs. R. R. MacKenzie and prize winners in the contests which provided entertainment for the evening, were Mrs. Leach, Mrs. Roy Yocus and Mrs. MacKenzie.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, who used the Easter theme in her decorations and favors.

Mrs. Ferguson will entertain the group in her home April 24.

Salem Couple Feted On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Shaffer of Fair St. were surprised Monday night when their immediate family and a group of close friends called at their home to help celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

The couple received many lovely gifts, cards and bouquets. One arrangement of spring flowers was used for a centerpiece when a buffet lunch was served.

Arrangements for the party were made by Mrs. Shaffer's sister, Mrs. Paul Miller, and a close friend, Mrs. Wiliam Slosser.

Mrs. Eva Wilson of Alliance has been spending the week with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wilson of the Damascus Rd.

Pythian Sisters Name New Social Committee

Most Excellent Chief, Mrs. Louis Laurain, presided at the regular meeting of the Pythian Sisters in the K. of P. Hall Thursday night.

The gift box was presented to Mrs. Blaine McClaskey, and Mrs. Elizabeth Helman was winner of a contest held after the meeting.

Mrs. George Barnes, Mrs. Charles Huffer and Mrs. Frances Flick were appointed to serve on the new social committees.

CHILDREN'S TALES SELECTED

"White Bunny and His Magic Nose,' "Aniela's Easter' and "A Happy Easter" will be the stories told at the story telling hour Saturday at 11 a.m. in the public library by Mrs. Howard Beilhart, the children's librarian.

Presbyterian Cub Pack Plans Mardi Gras For Pool Fund

A 'wild animal' act, a bake sale, midway attractions and a full hour of entertainment will be included in the Mardi Gras program to be presented by members of the seven dens of Presbyterian Cub Pack 3 Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the High School gym as a benefit for the swimming pool fund.

The cubs have made posters and Horace Schwartz, den dad, has assisted in the distribution. Den mothers assisting in the Mardi Gras are Mrs. Primo Citino, Mrs. Carl Krickbaum, Mrs. Glenn Broomall, Mrs. Floyd Crawford, Mrs. Stephen Daley and Mrs. Carl Conner.

Items for the bake sale will be in charge of Mrs. H. L. Kells. The cubs have made 70 bird houses and these will be offered for sale by Mrs. Henry Reese. Tom Mercer will be in charge of the fish pond and Mrs. Carl Lehwald and her committee will set up a refreshment booth. Surprise packages will be prepared by Henry Reese Jr. Ticket chairman is Ray Reich Jr.

The program will start with a parade around the gym and the cubs of the various dens will present humorous skits. Assisting the boys and the den mothers and fathers are Cubmasters Lionel Smith and Sam Wald.

Dr. Hodgin To Speak At Winona Church

Services for the week starting Palm Sunday and continuing through Easter Sunday in the Winona Friends Church will be conducted by Dr. and Mrs. G. Arnold Hodgin of Wilmore, Ky. Rev. Paul Brantingham, church pastor, said today that Dr. Hodgin will preach each evening at 8 p.m. except Saturday.

Paul Roher and Arthur Ford will arrange for the musical portion of the meetings. Dr. Hodgin, the former president of Cleveland Bible College, is wel-known here. He also is former head of the philosophy of religion department of Asbury College and former president of the National Holiness Missionary Society.

Two mothers with the largest families present will receive corsages at the Palm Sunday service. Sunday School wil convene at 10 a.m., with the worship hour at 11 a.m. Marilyn Gamble and Neva Geary will sing a duet.

The Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor Societies will meet Sunday at 7:15 p.m. A pre-service prayer meeting also will be held Sunday at 7:15 p.m., followed by the evening service at 8.

In the attendance contest conducted in the Winona Friends Church, in conjunction with other Friends churches, four people who brought the most visitors to the services are Mrs. Zerm Aiken, William Jermolenko, Neva Geary ahd Willard Yengling.

Mrs. Mauro Is Guest At M. & M. Club Party

Mrs. Guy Mauro was a guest at the M. & M. Club party Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Clifford Lowry on Summit St. Mrs. Joseph Fisher, whose birthday was March 26, was presented a shower of gifts.

Prizes in "500" went to Mrs. John Fithian and Mrs. Fisher and a special award was won by Mrs. Fred Kaiser. The hostess used Easter trimmings as her refreshment theme. The party, April 8, will take place in the W. Pershing St. home of Mrs. Ralph Landwert.

Atomic Gun To Be Used As Hit-Run Weapon Despite Size

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP) — If the Army's new atomic cannon is to be a complete success in actual combat, it will have to be used as a hit-and-run weapon despite its tremendous size.

This is the opinion of Col. Devere Armstrong of Gladwin, Mich., commanding officer of the 52nd Field Artillery Group, who will soon superintend the firing of the first atomic projectile from the Army's new 280 millimeter gun on the Nevada Proving Grounds.

Armstrong brought out the hit-and-run idea yesterday as a crew from his 867th Field Artillery Battalion fired 11 rounds of conventional ammunition in a preview of the Nevada tests for visiting newsmen.

"This is a great big gun, physically speaking," Armstrong said of the 85-ton weapon "and when you combine that with its unprecedented destructive potential when it shoots an atomic round you will appreciate how vitally the enemy will want to locate it on the battlefield and then do everything possible to knock it out before it sends an atomic round into a critical target within his lines.

"We are likewise vitally interested in preventing the enemy from finding the gun; hence we inquire into every known possibility from his viewpoint.

"The optimum solution from our viewpoint would be to be able, when a suitable target for an atomic round is located by intelligence agencies, to send this weapon forward from a sheltered rear area and under cover of darkness to a previously prepared position, deliver the atomic shell without prior registration or other firing that would alert the enemy, and then remove the gun back to a sheltered position."

Yesterday's press preview was a highlight in a series of tests being made at the artillery center here by the 867th Battalion, which will take two of the 280s from here to Nevada for the atomic firing.

Armstrong said the atomic shell would be fired about seven miles in Nevada and would be timed to burst 50 feet above ground. The big gun, which has a maximum range of around 20 miles, fires a projectile weighing 800 pounds.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

EAST LIVERPOOL, O. (AP)—Injuries in an automobile accident were fatal Thursday to Mrs. Florence Russell, 64, in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where she was vacationing. Her late husband, Harry, was associated with the Louthan Mfg. Co. here, which was established by her family.

It is believed that the balloon was invented in France in 1782.

Police Comb London For Sex Sadist Who Killed Four Women

LONDON (AP) — Police flying squads combed cheap rooming houses in this huge city today, seeking a sex sadist who hid the strangled corpses of four women in a grubby West Side flat.

A general warning was issued that the killer may strike again at any time.

Doctors who examined the bodies said the victims had been subjected to "uncontrollable outbursts of passion" by the slayer.

Scotland Yard detectives described their quarry as a middle-aged man of abnormal sex tendencies who practiced sadism of "a peculiar type."

The last of the four bodies was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Ethel Christie, 45, last seen by neighbors just before Christmas. She had lived in the murder flat for nearly 20 years with her 55-year-old husband, John, a trucking clerk.

Mrs. Christie's body was found Wednesday buried under the floorboards of the apartment dining room.

The day before, a prospective tenant of the flat had brought to light the partly-clothed bodies of three girls, jammed into a pantry niche walled up by several thicknesses of wallpaper.

The four women had been dead for periods ranging from five weeks to three months.

A nation-wide search was on for Christie but Scotland Yard would say only, "It is believed he may be able to help police in their inquiries."

Aside from Mrs. Christie, the victims have been identified as:

Hectorina MacLennan, 27-year-old wife of Burmese Air Force Sgt. Khin Maing Soe Hle and mother of two children.

Kathleen Maloney, 25, described by relatives as a "wild girl," who recently finished a term in London's Holloway Prison.

Rita Nelson, 24, an Irish girl who came to London several months ago and took a room in the tough Hammersmith district.

But Police Supt. P. J. Beveridge told reporters:

"We can find no common link between the murdered women."

Police said a main suspect in the case was spotted near the murder house last Friday and was seen taking photographs in a nearby park Monday—the day before the first corpses were found. They expressed the belief that he since has holed up in a room somewhere in London.

Hanoverton Man Resumes Trade He Learned As Boy

HANOVERTON — A four - year apprenticeship without pay, in the today for Herman Zeigler of Hanoverton, who recently opened a shoe repair shop in the garage at his home.

When a boy in Bavaria, the shoemaking trade was selected for Mr. Zeigler by his parents, as was the custom of those days in European countries. Born in Wurttenberg, Germany, he attended grade school but did not continue because advanced classes were only for the wealthy. He went to classes six days a week for 12 months of the year and "vacationed" only at harvest time.

Mr. Zeigler learned his trade by spending four years under the tutelege of a shoemaker in the Bavarian state, living in the attic of his instructor's home. His father had to pay board for him, instead of the boy being paid for his work.

He left Bavaria March 13, 1930, coming to the United States to live with his brother, George at Cheyenne, Wyo. Mr. Zeigler's mother, father, sisters and other brothers still reside in Bavaria. One brother spent months in a concentration camp during World War II.

Mr. Zeigler decided after a visit with his parents three years ago that he would take up his childhood trade, and the shop here, open from 6 to 9 p.m. daily and Saturday afternoon, is the result of that decision. He also is employed at Salem by the Save-Way Sales and Manufacturing Co.

Gives Priest Knife After Stabbing 12

SEATTLE (AP) — A young priest was hailed today as a hero for coolly inducing a beserk Filipino to give up the knife with which he had stabbed 12 fellow patients at a tuberculosis sanatorium.

The Rev. James Knelleken thought he had been called yesterday forenoon to Firland Sanatorium, a county institution north of here, to administer last rites to a dying man.

Instead he walked into a blood-spattered ward at one end of which stood Esteban Maranitan Rucero, 37, knife in hand and surrounded by patients and sheriff's deputies.

Through the length of the ward lay Rucero's victims, stabbed silently and methodically by the little Filipino as he slashed his way along. Some were seriously injured but doctors said today they are all in good condition.

"I'm glad you came, father," Rucero said as he spotted the priest. "Now I can die, father."

Slowly and coolly, Father Knelleken talked to Rucero. Finally, Rucero said:

"I trust you, father," and agreed to go with him to jail. There, Rucero gave up his long-bladed spring-type clasp knife and explained his action to Sheriff Harlan Callahan:

"Everybody was against me... They kept sticking needles into me . . ."

Defense Policy Accord Reported

U. S., France Differ On Future Of Saar

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and France were reported agreed today on Indochina and European defense policy, but at odds over plans for settling the future of the industrial Saar Basin.

The French-American disagreement over Saar policy developed yesterday as President Eisenhower and top American officials began conferences with a visiting French government delegation headed by Premier Rene Mayer.

The problem was due to bob up again today at four separate meetings scheduled mainly to discuss France's continued need for dollar aid in Europe and Indochina.

As the talks entered their second day, Mayer was said to be insisting France must get general assurances she will continue, in effect, to dominate the Saar before she consents to join the proposed six-nation European army.

The Saar is a rich steel-producing area of 738 square miles, claimed by both France and Western Germany. After World War II, it was detached from Germany and integrated economically with France.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles made it known in two talks yesterday they did not believe agreement on the Saar's future should be made a condition of French approval of the long-delayed European army arrangement.

Whether this apparent conflict could be smoothed over before talks end tomorrow was not apparent.

American officials, however, are anxious to avoid any specific promise to France on this hot issue lest it jeopardize relations with Western Germany. Konrad Adenauer, West German chancellor, is expected here April 6 for talks with Eisenhower.

Informants who told of the French-American talks thus far stressed the friendly tone of all conversations, especially those dealing with Indochina.

Eisenhower, they said, repeatedly told the French delegation the U. S. regards their struggle in Indochina as a war against communism and not a colonial war.

He reportedly added the U. S. intends to give France as much help as possible to win this seven-year-old war. But he made it clear American aid would be confined to bigger military supply shipments and not troops.

The French have not requested American manpower for Indochina.

Sailor With Rare Disease Improves

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio sailor under treatment at nearby Bethesda Naval Hospital for a rare skin disease is "getting along all right," doctors said today.

The sailor, Wesley A. Hill of Circleville, was flown here from French Morocco 10 days ago.

Doctors told a reporter Hill's progress has been "satisfactory," but that he still is seriously ill.

"We don't know what the outcome will be," one doctor said, "but he is a lot better than he was at Christmas time."

The Navy doctors said they cannot tell how long 21-year-old Hill will have to stay in the hospital.

Hill's ailment at first was thought to be rheumaeic fever, but later was diagnosed as a chronic skin disease.

Aid To Crippled Children

It has always seemed to me that the child who was born crippled or deformed or who became handicapped after birth through disease or injury was in particular need of our help and sympathy.

Certainly it is not enough just to feel sorry for some youngster who is handicapped, and consequently I am particularly enthusiastic about the work of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, whose Easter Seal campaign for funds is now under way.

This organization, as nearly all readers of this column know, is a voluntary one, supported by contributions from friends all over the country. Like all other health organizations—it has a constant struggle to keep income up to the needs for expenditure.

Last year, for example, the Easter Seal campaign returned more than 500 per cent more money than it had 10 years before. All this, however, was badly needed because of the constant trend to expand activities of the society in aiding handicapped children to get the medical care, schooling, recreation, equipment and other things which they need.

At the risk of making this column sound like a catalog it seems interesting to mention some of their activities.

They have affiliates in each of the 48 states and in the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. These include 78 diagnostic and evaluation clinics, 171 out-patient treatment centers, 10 residential centers, 21 rehabilitation centers and curative workshops, 32 treatment centers, 97 speech and hearing facilities and services, 187 public school systems receiving assistance, 40 workshops and home-bound programs, 33 craft outlets, and 16 programs of special education.

One of the reasons for the increased activity and need for funds of the national society is the fact that medical developments have made it possible to do more and more for those youngsters—and adults, too—who are crippled or handicapped. Surely we have not reached the end of medical discoveries either, so that further possibilities in aid can be anticipated.

Indeed, the society itself is active in this field and aiming toward the establishment of a research program in addition to its already established activities in supporting the professional training of doctors therapists, teachers and counselors for the crippled through scholarships and fellowships.

For those who are particularly interested in problems in this field, the association publishes a monthly magazine called "The Crippled Child" ($2, 11 South LaSalle St., Chicago 3, Ill.). Support of this efficiently run voluntary organization is heartily recommended.

DENIES OWNING SLOTS

IRONTON, O. (AP)—The trial of Dustin E (Ducky) Corn, former night club operator, enters its second day today. Thursday Corn denied the 15 slot machines he is charged with possessing were his. Corn said he sold the machines for $2,000 to Cornelius F. Goldcamp, former city councilman.

Salem High School Cagers Select All-Opponent Team

Sharpsville Rated Toughest Team

Six Pivotmen Listed Among All-Opponents

The 1952-53 High School all-opponent cage team has just been released.

Members of the Salem Varsity squad, along with Coaches John Cabas and Karl Zellers, Thursday voted on the 15 players who they thought were the toughest the Quakers faced all year long.

Most of the squad picked the mighty Sharpsville Club as the toughest all-around team, with New Castle following in second place.

The honorary captaincy of the mythical squad goes to Ed Jordan of Sebring, who also polled the most votes in the All-Ohio voting.

Others on the first team are Bill Vasconi of Sharpsville, Sam Stipanovic of Chaney, George Strehler of New Castle, and Kem McBride of Cleveland West, who scored 32 points against the locals.

The second team is composed of Don McBride of Columbiana, Ed Oliver and Bob McCoy of East Liverpool, and Ken Vaughn and Ray Beach of Girard, which went al the way to the State finals at Cincinnati.

Third team berths go to Scott Garrett and Jim Cline of Niles, Jim Cobbin and Leon Harper of Youngstown North and Bruce Anderson of Ravenna.

Vasconi, Strehler, Stipanovic, Kline, Vaughn and Harper are all pivotmen, a fact which accents how much the locals suffered from lack of height.

All told the 15 players mentioned scored a total of 236 points against Salem, averaging about 16 per man. The Quakers lost to every school represented except Girard.

An excellent indication as to why the Quakers fared so poorly this year can easily be found in the win-loss statistics of the teams represented on the all-opponent squad.

Altogether, the 11 teams represented won a grand total of 204 games, losing only 43 for an amazing percentage of 82.6.

The five schools mentioned on the first team had a combined total of 91 victorys against 19 defeats; the second team accounted for 53 triumphs and 12 losses while the third team had 60 wins.

Following are the all-opponent teams selected.

FIRST TEAM
Ed Jordan, Sebring
Bill Vasconi, Sharpsville
Sam Stipanovic, Chaney
George Strehler, New Castle
Kem McBride, Cleveland West

SECOND TEAM
Ed Oliver, East Liverpool
Bob McCoy, East Liverpool
Ken Vaughn, Girard
Ray Beach, Girard
Don McBride, Columbiana

THIRD TEAM
Jim Coobbin, Ycn. North
Leon Harper, Ysn. North
Scott Garrett, Niles
Jim Cline, Niles
Bruce Anderson, Ravenna

Salem Tool Loses, 62-57, In Tournament

Canton Collegians tromped over Mullins 82-49 while Youngstown's Smiley's Tavern edged out Salem Tool 62 to 57, in the Invitational Basketball Tournament games held in the Memorial Building Thursday night.

The third game in the tournament played last night went to the Columbiana Youngs, 89 to 66, over Ravenna Shell.

Canton led Mullins 40 to 28 at the half and 55 to 48 at the third quarter, Mullin's Treleven, leading his team with 16 points, failed to bring his squad within striking distance of the Canton five. Hayes paced the Collegians with 26 points

High scorer on the Youngstown team was Roper with 19 points. Salem Tool's Lanney was close behind with 15 points. In the first quarter of the game the score was all tied up 15 to 15, but Youngstown took the lead in the second quarter, 32 to 26, and never relinquished it from then on.

The Columbiana-Ravenna game was never in doubt throughout the play with Columbiana leading 45 to 32 at the end of the half and 69 to 52 in the third quarter. High scorer on the Columbiana squad was Gaist with 25 points. Ravenna's Matteson led his squad's attack with 25 points.

Quarter finals will be played in the tournament tonight with the Steel City team opening the session against the Massillon All-Stars at 7. Salem Hine Motors play Farrell Merchants at 8 and Youngstown's Smiley's Tavern closes the night's play against the Columbiana Mays at 9.

College Boxer Critically Hurt In Bout With Alliance Fighter

CLEVELAND (AP)—A brain surgeon said today he was sure Merrill Silverstein, 18-year-old junior at Western Reserve University, was injured critically by a blow in an intramural boxing match.

The statement was made by Dr. Charles Elkins, assistant clinical professor in neuro surgery at the school, who removed a blood clot from Silverstein's brain.

"Only time will tell," he said, if the boy will recover. Lakeside Hospital, which had Silverstein in an iron lung, listed him on the danger list.

Silverstein collapsed during his match Wednesday afternoon with Andrew Mooney, 18, of Alliance. The boys were wearing heavy headgear and heavy gloves, and were fighting on a two inch thick mat surrounded by padded ropes.

Mooney said he "didn't think I hit him very hard. I hit him about three times in the face in the first 15 seconds and he fell over backwards."

Dr. Elkins compared the injury to the one that killed Jimmy Doyle in a championship match here several years ago with Ray Robinson.

Shortly after Silverstein was taken to the hospital, one doctor said first examination made it appear that he could have collapsed "walking down the street." But Dr. Elkins said it was a "fresh injury."

Informed of the incident in Chicago, where he was attending a meeting, WRU's president, Dr. John S. Millis, ordered a full investigation.

Dark Horse Favored In 107th Grand National Steeplechase

By STERLING SLAPPEY

AINTREE, England (AP)—An 11-year-old dark horse named Little Yid emerged today as the 9-1 betting favorite for the wide open 107th running of Saturday's Grand National steeplechase—the world's blue ribbon jumping race.

The probable field for the perilridden cavalry charge of four miles and 856 yards over 30 murderous fences was cut to 37 with the announcement that Stormhead, Shock Tactics, Roman Fire and Just Joe were doubtful starters.

A mysterious flood of money poured in on Little Yid at the next to last callover of odds by London Bookmakers. The final callover—a private affair where the bookmakers attempt to balance their books—will be staged tonight.

The Irish hot shot, Early Mist, which had been the favorite at 100-9 drifted out to 100-7. So did Lucky Dome, another Irish hope which had been second choice at 100-8.

Glen Fire, a slow but steady jumper, also found strong support and finished up as a 100-8 second choice to Little Yid.

The cause of all the enthusiasm for Little Yid and Glen Fire was hard to find.

Little Yid has run only twice over any portion of the course. He was beaten in the Topham Trophy Chase by 20 lengths last season but was a three length winner earlier this year in the Molyneux Chase. In his last three races on easier courses Little Yid was fourth, third and second.

Glen Fire fell early in the running of the 1951 Grand National and refused to jump a fence in the easier Grand Sefton Chase here last year.

In Little Yid's favor, he does at least have a rider who knows how to get around the Aintree jumps—Jimmy Power who won the race on Freebooter in 1950.

Come rain, snow or fog — and occasionally in England you get all three almost at once—about 250,000 fans are expected to be here at post time.

Aggies Given 30 Days To Avoid Blackball

CHICAGO (AP)—Oklahoma A & M began working against a 30-day deadline today to avoid academic blackballing by the North Central Association, the nation's most powerful accrediting agency.

In a surprise move, the NCA granted the Aggies 30 days to produce "documentary substantiation that the institition is in conformity with the association's athletic program."

This action came Thursday night and was based solely on a plea by the school's president, Oliver S. Willham.

The NCAA, with a membership of 38 colleges and universties in a 19-state area, had taken steps to discredit the Aggies on a charge alleging the Missouri Valley Conference school had subsidized athletes, stressed athletics as a means for securing public support and lacked faculty control of athletic policy.

The NCA today was scheduled to go through with its vote on the recommendation that Bradley University be placed on a year's probation.

Bradley, jolted by the 1951-52 basketball scandals, was said by the NCA still to be conducting an unsatisfactory athletic program and has educational weakness.

Paddy Young, Durando To Battle Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing's boom boom boys, punching Paddy Young and Ernie (The Rock) Durando, collide for the fifth time at Madison Square Garden tonight in a semifinal of the American middleweight elimination tournament.

The winner of the 12-round bout will earn the right to face Carl (Bobo) Olson of San Francisco for the U. S. crown.

Young and Durando have made a career of fighting each other. Very lucrative it is, too.

They drew 9,469 fans and $35,894 for their fourth fight a year and 20 months ago and the promoting International Boxing Club expects to match those figures tonight even though the fight at 10 p. m., EST., will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Umpire Staff Increased

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The minor baseball leagues today increased from four to six their staff of umpire supervisors.

George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, announced the appointment of Pat Padden and Jack Powell for the 1953 season. They will join veterans George H. Johnson, George W. Pipgras, James F. Tobin, and Hal Weafer.

Sebring Awarded Tri-County Trophy

Sebring High School basketball team which won 11 games and lost one in the Tri-County League, was awarded the League trophy by Superintendent V. J. Ullman of Lisbon at a dinner meeting at Leetonia High School last night.

Receiving the trophy for the school was basketball coach Ray Shaefer who guided Sebring to first place in the league's 1952-53 basketball season when his team won 18 games and lost two.

For the 1953-54 school season, Russell Strauser, superintendent of Louisville schools was elected president of the league replacing superintendent V. J. Ullman of Lisbon. Principal H. E. Wilson of Louisville High School was elected secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting of the league will be in September.

The statistics for the seven teams in league play in the 20-year old League loop are:

Team	Won	Lost
Sebring	11	1
Lisbon	9	3
Louisville	6	6
Minerva	6	6
Poland	5	7
East Palestine	5	7
Leetonia	0	12

Boxing Pay Rule May Close Some Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—The director of one small boxing network show said today the increased financial demands of boxing managers probably will force him to fold while other promoters adopted a wait and see attitude.

The International Boxing Guild, made up of leading managers of the country, Thursday set a minimum fee of $5,000 for each main event fighter on a network television show, effective June 15. In addition, IBG delegates voted to limit network boxing shows to four a week.

"We couldn't meet such a charge," said Tex Sullivan, director of the Tuesday night show (ABC) from Ridgewood Grove in Brooklyn. "We've only got two stations. We'll probably fold."

Sullivan's show pays each feature fighter $1,500 for TV.

Officials of the IBG said they decided on the moves to get more money for their fighters and to help the small clubs around the nation. The managers handle almost all of the "name" fighters in the country.

"If we don't get what we want," said Charlie Johnston, president of the IBG, "there'll be no boxers available for any shows."

Awards Presented At Meeting Of Little Baseball Leagues

More than one proud mother had trouble seeing clearly and not a few vest buttons popped Thursday night as a huge audience watched the proceedings that went on in the High School auditorium.

The occasion was the presentation of awards to approximately 75 Salem youngsters and adults who participated last year in Little League baseball—and throughout the applause-punctuated event, only the kids themselves appeared unconcerned.

Diamond-minded youngsters — who can rattle off professional baseball names and statistics with amazing alacrity — ascended the stage stairs as their names were called with an aplomb befitting the stars they are.

Occupying seats on the stage, and almost as elated as the kids and their parents, were the other grownups—the coaches and managers and umpires and trainers; the businessmen and factory employees and construction workers and professional men—who gave freely of their time, effort and money to enable Salem kids to enjoy the great American sport.

But probably the most rewarded of all by last night's drama were the men of the Charles H. Carey American Legion post, which sponsors the Little Leagues.

John Herman Jr., president of the Leagues, served as announcer, introducing the boys and adults and presenting the awards.

S. S. Courtney, director of Ohio Little Leagues, was guest speaker.

Among the individuals honored were Mark Fenton and Robt. Stalsmith, selected as Salem's outstanding League boys, judged on the basis of scholarship, sports, leadership and personality.

Al Catlos, William Adams and A. Wright received awards for their management of the League's leading teams. Mullins, Elger and Salem Concrete teams received group awards.

Last night's affair also heralded the start of the new Little League season. Teams will be divided in three classifications this year—Major and Minor, for boys aged eight to 12, and Pony, for youngsters between 12 and 15 years of age.

Practice is scheduled to start sometime in April.

Chicago Boxers Win 11-5 Over New York

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's far-flung Golden Gloves squad today reigned as the national champions of amateur boxing after Thursday night's decisive 11-5 victory over New York's best.

The 26th annual intercity bouts before 13,477 at the Chicago Stadium left Gotham's touted squad drawing a blank for the eighth straight year since New York won in 1945.

Chicago's able team, utilizing talent from the Alleghenies to the west coast, was bristling with scrappers eligible for the International Golden Gloves at the Stadium June 16.

Thursday night's intercity activity was short on knockout power, but produced a bevy of lads who are clever with their fists.

3 To Barnstorm With Redlegs "B" Team

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Pitchers Ken Raffensberger and Harry Perkowski and catcher Andy Seminick are going to make the barnstorming trip home with the Cincinnati Reds "B" team—but that doesn't mean they're in danger of losing their jobs.

"I know what those three fellers can do," said Manager Rogers Hornsby. "It's more important to see what some of our promising kids can do against major league competition."

The Reds lost 10-8 Thursday to the Milwaukee Braves and one of General Manager Gabe Paul's off-season deals rose up to haunt him. First baseman Joe Adcock, traded to the Braves several weeks ago, clubbed out a single, two doubles and a home run.

Togo Palazzi of Holy Cross was the only unanimous choice on the Notre Dame all-opponent basketball team of the recently concluded campaign.

TO RACE IN FLORIDA

MARIETTA, O. (AP)—The Marietta College crew heads for Florida Saturday for three races next week. The Pioneers will row against Tampa U. Tuesday; against Florida Southern at Lakeland Thursday, and against Rollins at Winter Park next Saturday.

Brissie, Aber Look Improved In Relief

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Ever since the days of Gene Bearden, the Cleveland Indians have needed a steady, southpaw pitcher.

Judging from spring training results, they now hope they have one again in Lou Brissie, and maybe another in Al Aber.

Brissie, who helped the Indians a lot in 1951 but was ineffective last year, has allowed four runs in 12 innings of exhibition pitching, but only one was earned.

Aber, both good and bad so far, didn't allow the Chicago White Sox a hit in two innings Thursday.

The Indians also had their bats working in the 8-4 victory over Chicago. Al Rosen and Jim Hegan each hit homers. Luke Easter and Bob Avila each had three singles. Dale Mitchell hit a triple and a single. In all, the team had 14 hits off Lou Kretlow and Luis Aloma. It was Cleveland's third win out of four over the White Sox.

Ohio Golf Tourney Set

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Willoughby's Lost Nation course will be the site of the annual Ohio Public Links Golf Association tournament this year.

The 72-hole competition will be held July 1, 2 and 3 on a medal play basis.

Swimming Lead Taken By Yale

OSU Is Expected To Gain Tonight

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Yale's favored splashers piled up 13 points in Thursday night's lone event, but Ohio State's defending champs figure to slash that lead in tonight's six competitions in the NCAA swims.

Years of training and trying paid off for Yale's 22-year-old senior, Jimmy McLane, and he registered the first major victory of his college career in the 1,500-meter freestyle to send the powerful Eli squad out in front.

McLane, second to Ohio State's Ford Konno a year ago in 18.17.7, hit 18.27.5 Thursday almost 10 seconds off his former pace. Konno surrendered to the after-effects of mumps and did not start.

Wayne Moore, Yale's 220-yard freestyle champ, finished second in the long race—65 2-3 laps in the 25-yard Buckeye pool—and Martin Smith was a surprising sixth to give the Yales their total.

Bert McLachlan of Michigan State was third, William Yorzyk of Springfield (Mass.) College fourth, and Graham Johnston, Oklahoma's South African star, fifth.

Ohio, with nothing to show in the opening race, was set to get into the fight tonight as Dick Cleveland defends his 50-yard freestyle, Yoshi Oyakawa his 200-yard backstroke crown, and Bob Clotworthy promises to take the low board diving event.

However, Yale figures to pick up another 13 or more points in the 220-yard freestyle with Moore repeating.

The meet winds up Saturday night when seven championships will be decided. Yale is a heavy favorite to take its fourth team title, with Ohio State second.

Braves Doing Better As Milwaukee Club

Team Wins 4 Of 7; Cards Stop Yanks, Browns Whip Giants

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Braves apparently already are benefiting by a change of scenery even though they haven't moved out of Florida.

As far as the spring season is concerned Boston lost a losing baseball club. Milwaukee has inherited a winning one.

It hasn't been a big change, and even the Braves' brass admitted the club didn't have much choice of direction when it came to the question of going up or down from last year's dismal seventh place finish. But in the seven games since the switch was official the Milwaukee Braves have won four. Earlier, the Boston variety of the Braves won only four of 11.

These won and lost figures follow the whims of owner Lou Perini, who, when told that his ball club had lost on the day the National League approved the move, said:

"Tomorrow we become the Milwaukee Braves.'

Perini's calendar juggling didn't really matter since the Braves promptly lost the following day to Cincinnati, 4-3.

Yesterday they got revenge for the loss to the Reds as they battered four Cincinnati pitchers for a 10-8 victory. The brightest spot in the Milwaukee attack was the one-time Cincinnati outfielder, Joe Adcock, now the Braves' first baseman.

Adcock, who went to the Braves during the winter in the four-club deal that sent Russ Meyer to Brooklyn and Earl Torgeson to Philadelphia, homered, doubled twice and singled against his club.

Slugfests were the rule in the grapefruit league yesterday. The day's six games produced 20 home runs, 12 by National League clubs.

The St. Louis Cardinals pounded Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees for 13 hits in six innings and thumped the world champion 10-2. Homers by Al Rosen and Jim Hegan plus a dozen other safeties gave Cleveland an 8-4 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Five home runs were blasted at Phoenix, Ariz., as the St. Louis Browns whipped the New York Giants, 6-5. Three Brownie homers each came with a runner on base. The Philadelphia Phillies ended the Brooklyn pitchers' run of scoreless innings at 30 by scoring in the first at Clearwater, Fla., but the Dodgers eventually won out in the 11th, 8-7.

The Boston Red Sox scored their first run in 24 innings at the expense of Washington at Orlando, Fla., and edged the Senators, 4-3, in the only other game played.

Trade rumors involving Cleveland continued to float around the Florida camps where Indian Vice President Hank Greenberg is making an extended visit. Greenberg took time out from a visit at the Detroit base to deny reports that outfielder Larry Doby had been offered to the Athletics and Senators.

Pittsburgh, which hasn't been able to play a full scale exhibition any time the past week, will resume competition today against the Cuban Stars at Havana. The Pirates had been scheduled to play nightly against all-star teams, then found the Havana stadium was booked solid for soccer the past six days. Games now will be played in the afternoon.

IN WRESTLING MEET

FINDLAY, O. (AP) — About 70 athletes from eight high schools will meet here today and Saturday in the Northwestern Ohio Fifth Annual Invitational wrestling tournament.

Schools represented are Lima Central, Fostoria, Sylvania, Toledo Clay, Amherst, Van Buren, Celina and Toledo Whitmer.

The Umpire

By BEANS REARDON
24 Years in National League

Question: In a semi-professional game, a batter hit a pop 'fly which came down between the pitcher and catcher and was allowed to fall on the ground on fair territory without touching either player. It bounced over the base line to foul territory where it was fielded and thrown to first base. Was it fair or foul? — Bob Robinson.

Answer: Foul ball.

Q. Years ago, before home plate was moved out at Crosley Field in Cincinnati and seats were eliminated near the foul line, it was possible to bounce home runs into right and left field pavilions. Didn't the Waner brothers, Lloyd and Paul, once perform the trick consecutively?John Post.

A. No. The game you speak of was played in 1927 and Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh hit a low liner over third that hopped into the low seats in left field just beyond the 250-foot mark for a home run. Brother Paul came up in the same inning, hit an identical drive over third base for another homer, but not before Clyde Barnhart had been retired. This story is often told as if the hits happened successively.

Q. In the 82 years they were in the National League, how many times did the Boston Braves finish in the first division? Ben Groves.

A. Pennant winners twice, the Braves finished in the first division a total of 14 times since 1900. They won the world championship in 1914.

Q. In the minor leagues, what is the rule about a fielder climbing over a fence or into the stand to catch a ball?—Roger Adams.

A. It is not allowed, but the fielder may reach over the barrier to make the catch.

4 Champs To Be Named In U. S. Figure Skating

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—The United States Figure Skating Association crowns four champions tonight as the 36th annual competition moves into its final half.

At stake in the heavy program are the junior pairs title, the junior ladies, senior men and silver dance.

A close fight for each title is anticipated with the exception of the senior men's class where world champion Hayes Allen Jenkins of Akron, O., is expected to outdazzle three other opponents in the free style skating to wrap up the third gem of skating's triple crown for 1953.

Actually, the best competition seems to be in the second place battle between Hugh Graham of Tulsa, Okla., Budley Richards of Boston, Mass., and Ronald Robertson of the Broadmoor Club of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Two 990 Teams Roll In ABC Tournament

CHICAGO (AP)—Two 990 average teams, Detail Tool & Machine Co. of Detroit and Ferdon Equipment Co., of Hillside, N. J., will be the featured performers in the American Bowling Congress tournament tonight.

Working with the Detroit club will be Johnny Crimmins, one of bowling's all-time greats, who'll be making his 30th appearance in an ABC.

Competition in doubles and singles resumes today after a one-day recess with five squads scheduled to compete. The open date was to permit the cleaning of all equipment.

Only three shifts of 40-teams each rolled Thursday night, with two changes being recorded in the top 10.

Sheeley's Studebakers of Scranton, Pa, shot 3,010 to grab 10th place, while Don R. Jensen Co. of Chicago moved into fifth place in the booster division with 2,781.

Named Baseball Coach

WILMINGTON, O. (AP)—Richard Hart of Chillicothe, 1951 Wilmington College graduate, has been named coach of the college baseball team for the eight - game spring program.

He is substituting for Fred Raizk, on leave to complete his Master's Degree work at Ohio State during the spring and summer.

Wofford Star Named Top Small School Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ellerbe (Daddy) Neal of Wofford won the small college basketball scoring championship of the country, the NCAA Service Bureau announced today—but he couldn't have taken it by a narrower margin.

Neal finished with a 32.60 average per game, compared to 32.57 for runnerup Eddie Solomon of West Virginia Tech.

Neal was declared the winner when the NCAA tossed out Bevo Francis' records. The Rio Grande star had an average of 50.1 points per game and 48.3 against four-year colleges, on which the statistics are based.

Both Neal and Solomon broke the small college record of 31.2 set by George King of Morris Harvey in 1950.

Cincinnati Cage Team Honored With Dinner

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Cincinnati honored its 1952-53 basketball team in a campus dinner Thursday night that was described as part of a "back to the campus" movement.

The dinner usually is held in a downtown hotel.

Coach George Smith awarded nine varsity letters and eight freshmen numerals. He announced that next year's captain would not be elected until next fall.

Varsity letters winners included seniors Bob Rain of New Knoxville; Larry Imburgia of Warren; juniors Joe Okruhlica of Hamilton, and sophomore Ron Surface of Lebanon.

Kiwanians Hear Dr. Myrene Ewing

Salem Kiwanians, meeting in the Memorial Building Thursday noon, heard Dr. Myrene Ewing, executive secretary of the Pathfinders of America, Inc., explain the development of the organization's character education program, and saw a film of the program in action.

Dr. Ewing explained that the nonsectarian group has as its purpose the building of character of our young people in the public schools. The film entitled "Human Engineering" showed the organization's manner of dealing individualiy with pupil's problems.

According to Dr. Ewing the Pathfinders' program is working in about 32 Cleveland schools besides other suburban schools about the city and all over the nation. Teachers are specially trained by the organization to present its character building lessons.

Kiwanian John Jurczak arranged Thursday's program.

Area Educators To Hear Canton School Head

The annual spring meeting of the Columbiana County Education Association will be held April 14 at 7 p.m. at Salem First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Harold H. Eibling, Superintendent of Canton schools, will be the speaker.

Paul E. Roher of United Local School is president of the association.

Cuba became an independent nation May 20, 1902.

County Schools Plan All-Day Conference

LISBON — County School Superintendent James L. McBride said an all day conference for cafeteria and school lunch personnel will be held next month, with Waide D. Bash, state supervisor of the public school lunch program, as guest speaker. Date and location will be announced later.

He said the program will include both afternoon and evening sessions with a dinner to be served at the school.

Other speakers will include B. Russell Franklin, sanitation officer of the county health board and Mrs. Ethel Patterson, state nutritionist.

Superintendent McBride said personnel from county exempted schools and Carrol County as well as principals and school board members, will be invited.

Carrollton Man Killed

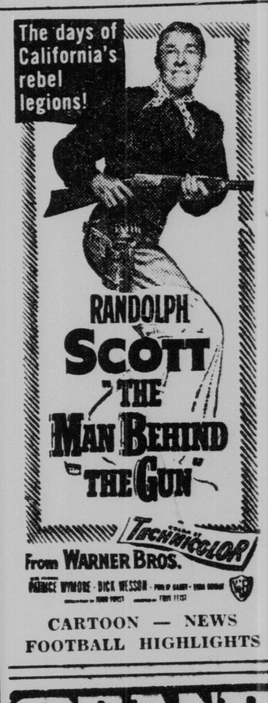

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Charles Harold Wilson, 28, of Carrollton, O., was killed in a traffic accident Thursday. A door flew open on the truck in which he was a passenger and he fell out, striking his head on a culvert.

Convert Attic Into A Game Room For Fun In The Attic

BEFORE REMODELING this cluttered attic might have been rated as a first hazard. It wasted useful living space.

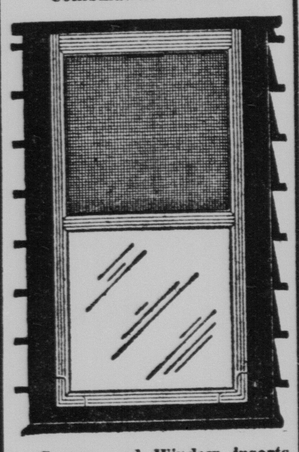

AFTER REMODELING the same space became a cheerful television and music room. Note how the rafters of the roof valley in the corner were neatly covered with insulating board.

Tool Kit Saw Holder

Saw holders on the sides of a carpenter's tool box are easy to make with plywood or fibreboard, portecting saw teeth from damage by other tools.

Each saw holder is made of three sheets of thin board, the middle sheet being routed out to conform to the profile of the saw. When the saw is inserted in this pocket with edge down the teeth provide enough traction to hold it in place, while the handle protrudes. The idea, developed by a carpenter, was contributed to the American Builder pool of practical pointers.

Here's How To Build An Attic Bathroom

For several generations a bathroom in a house was rated as a luxury. Then for years a second bathroom in a house was considered superfluous. Nowadays many growing families regard a second bathroom as a necessity to take the pressure off the morning rush hour and clean-up period before meals.

The result is that the creation of a second bathroom is one of the first considerations in any project to finish off an attic.

For plumbing economy it is wise to locate a projected attic bathroom before you try to plan the rest of the improvement. Placing it over a downstairs bathroom, or over the kitchen is almost a must for the extension of plumbing pipes.

Some Planning Tips

Here are some points to check when planning an attic bathroom:

See that it has adequate ceiling height. Few things are more annoying than bumping your head against low ceilings or overhangs. Determine the amount of area available by measuring from floor to rafters and enclosing only the areas that will provide normal headroom.

Take advantage of low space under the roof slope by building in storage cabinets and drawers. Extra storage space in a bathroom can always be used for linen, winter blankets, luggage and seldom used equipment.

Check floor joists to make sure they are sturdy enough to support the added dead weight of bathroom fixtures. If not, double them. This will permit you to finish the floor and walls with clay tile, which is waterproof and permanent in decoration.

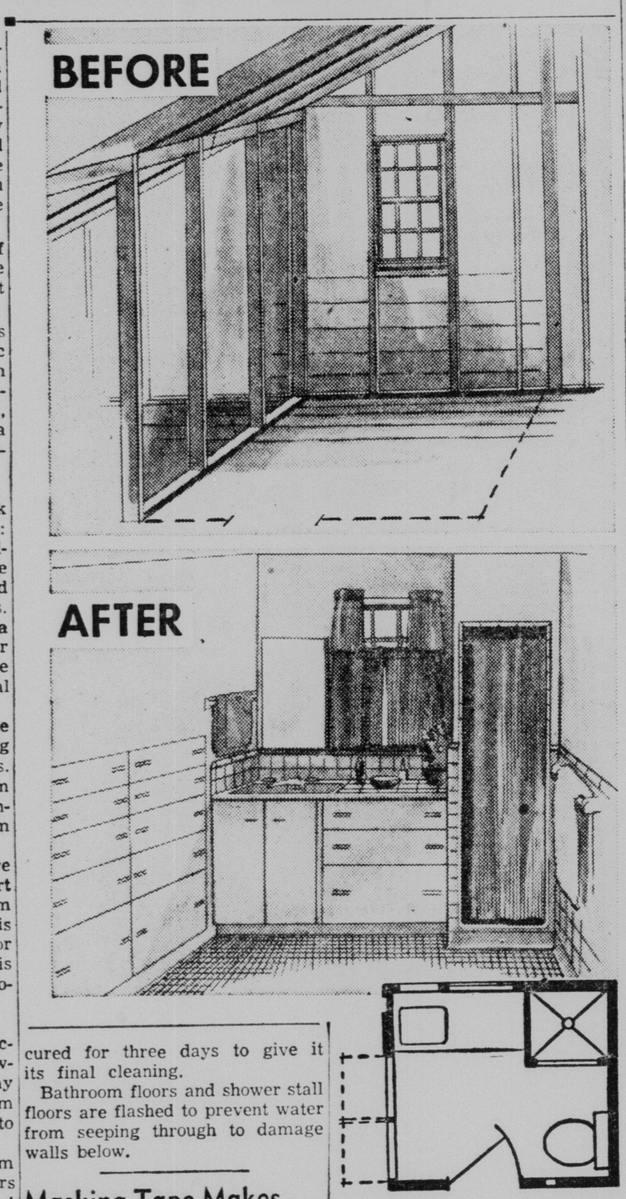

Showers Save Space

If you are obliged to keep a second bathroom small, install a shower stall rather than a tub. A roomy shower stall, finished in tile from floor to ceiling is always easier to clean than a tub.

In choosing colors for bathroom fixtures and tile, place your orders early. If you wait until the last minute, you will have to make your selections from whatever is in stock. Some tile is manufactured to match fixture colors perfectly. Giving a contractor time, gives you a wider range of choice in colors.

The usual bathroom tile job requires two days of work. The wall is tiled the first day and the floor on the second day. The tile contractor returns after the floor has cured for three days to give it its final cleaning.

Bathroom floors and shower stall floors are flashed to prevent water from seeping through to damage walls below.

Masking Tape Makes It Easy In Painting

Masking tape has become an almost indispensable tool for the amateur painter around the house.

This adjesive material, made by the manufacturers of the popular cellulose tape, is not transparent and therefore is handy for making labels.

It is especially useful in painting by making it easy to obtain straight lines, or edges without overlapping. It is commonly placed around the edges of window panes when the sash is being painted, or over the edge of natural wood trim or baseboards to protect them when walls are being painted.

Designs on doors can be masked out with the tape and painted so that sharp clean edges remain. Geometric designs can be made with the tape on cupboard doors or panels where unusual color effects are wanted. Kitchen chair seats can be given theerful patterns by masking.

The tape allows painting to be done as quickly as with a stencil.

ROOM DEODORIZERS

Electric deodorizers which blow room air through activated carbon can absorb and hold as much as 15 per cent of the weight of the carbon in odors and gaseous impurities.

Crosley Air Conditioner Makes For Better Living

A Crosley room air conditioner brings owners delightful freedom from sweltering days and nights.

Instead of oppressive heat and humidity, you enjoy a cool, invigorating atmosphere where mind and body function most efficiently, without strain. You work with a thrill, relax in comfort, sleep naturally and awake with renewed vigor for the new day.

Crosley room air conditioner cools room air with a capacity many times greater than that of an average refrigerator. It dehumidifies the air, removing many gallons of water each month from the hot, sticky atmosphere—humidity which is the chief cause of discomfort in hot weather.

It mixes quantities of fresh air with room air to maintain healthful ventilation. A large glass fibre filter screens out dust, dirt, soot and even microscopic pollen from room air as well as from the fresh air drawn in from outside.

Refinishing Furniture Is Painstaking Job

In refinishing old furniture the preparation of the wood is as vital as the careful application of a new finish.

Gordon Obrig, Fellow of the Industrial Designers Insittute and an expert on wood and wood finishes, has some practical tips for "do-it-yourself" hobbyists.

After an old finish has been completely removed with a suitable paint remover, Obrig suggests sponging the raw wood thoroughly with pure turpentine to remove all traces of chemicals.

"When the surface is dry," Obrig says, "the wood should be carefully rubbed with No. 00 steel wool followed by No. 00 sandpaper. New wood should be prepared with steel wool and sandpaper in the same way."

Thin coats of fresh white shellac are recommended for the undercoat. Best results can be obtained by rubbing each coat with No. 00 steel wool or sandpaper before the next coat is applied. For a natural finish, Obrig then rubs the final coat with a high quality carnuba paste wax for a final polish.

"If it is desired to bleach or stain the wood," he says, "it should be done with the raw wood before any shellac is applied. When the surface has dried, the shellac coat will seal in the stain or bleach and give the color a rich newness which will be protected."

Creosote Maintains Natural Wood Siding

Natural wood siding, becoming increasingly popular on modern so-called ranch style homes, offers the owner preferring a frame house as much freedom from painting as the owner of a brick house enjoys.

Creosote stain is one treatment preserving the wood and maintaining a rustic effect.

This method was used on the exteriors of new $30,000 homes at East Norwich, N. Y., by Furno & Harrison, architects of Split Roch Ridge. They found that one gallon of creosote is adequate for two coats over an area of 200 square feet of smooth siding. On new rough or sawn siding they covered 200 square feet with a gallon in two coats.

An average frame house measuring 30 by 50 feet with approximately 2,000 square feet of new wood siding was found to require about 10 gallons or creosote stain costing from $1.85 to $2.55 per gallon.. An extra single coat, added every four to six years and calling for half as much stair, is considered adequate to retain the natural wood beauty and guard against insects, moisture and dampness.

Creosote stains are available in a variety of shades. However, it is difficult to paint over them.

FOR CHALKY PLASTER

When an old plastered wall becomes so chalky that it is difficult to make wallpaper stick to it, a coat of shellac, which dries quickly, solves the problem and allows the wallpaper to be applied in the usual way.

STEP NO. 1 —
Question — WHO IS A BEDDING AUTHORITY?
Answer. — WE ARE!

We believe its the company that conscientously gets the right bedding into customers hands. (We were amazed at our recent bedding election to find that some people had invested thru the years over $200.00 in mattresses and springs without ever having satisfaction.) We also were amazed to find one of the leading names in bedding registered the most complaints. We are happy to report to the best of our knowledge we have the right combination to put in our customers hands.

STEP NO. 2 —
Question. — DO WE MAKE MISTAKES?
Answer. — THE ANSWER IS OF COURSE, YES!

Sometimes the customer themselves insist on the wrong kind, or buy for price alone. But, to assure you satisfaction we are going to offer 30 DAY SATISFACTION GUARANTEE.

STEP NO. 3.—
Question.—WHAT IS A GOOD MATTRESS?
Answer.—THE MATTRESS MUST FIT THE INDIVIDUAL!

An intelligent approach to choosing a mattress is to keep in mind that individual desires differ as much as choosing a pair of shoes. Our customers vote indicated that three out of five prefer a firm mattress. Keeping in mind at all times the weight of the customer etc: IT is refreshing to us as well as the customer to inform us they are enjoying for the first time a good nights rest.

Burglar Alarm For Your Home

A simple and reliable burglar alarm system for a home is easy for the handy man to design and install.

Push button switches of the type used on refrigerator and closet doors to turn on a light when the door is opened are installed in door jambs and window frames. As soon as a door or window is opened, these buttons are released making a contact to sound the alarm.

A door bell is used for the alarm. Since door bells operate on low voltage, which can be supplied by batteries, ordinary insulated bell cord is sufficient for wiring and involves no fire hazard.

A shut off switch is used to cut off the alarm system in the daytime when windows and doors will be opened by members of the household. This shut off switch should be located well away from the protected windows or doors and all wiring should be concealed as carefully as possible.

It also is wise to camouflage the push buttons in window and door frames by painting them the same color as the woodwork. This will make them less easily noticed when windows and doors are open.

Test the system periodically and replace batteries before they die out merely because of age.

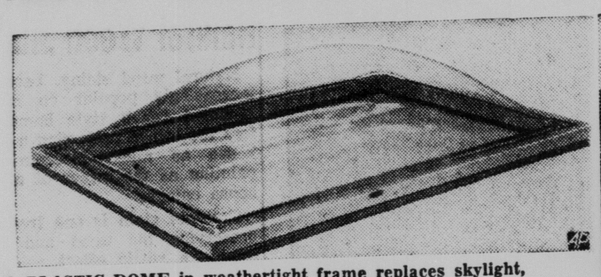

What's The Use Of A Basement

If you're planning a new house and pondering the problem of basement vs. no basement, you might ask yourself where you'll find space for the following:

1. A workbench and power tools.
2. A photo darkroom.
3. Track "mileage" for junior's model train and its tunnels and bridges.
4. An entertainment bar and recreation room.
5. Seasonal storage space for golf bags, tennis rackets, tricycles, sleds, skis, beach umbrellas, lawn furniture, electric fans.
6. And all your personal storage —canned goods, vases from Aunt Emma and gadgets that don't work.

Plastic Domes Light Interior Rooms

A PLASTIC DOME in weathertight frame replaces skylight,

The plastic glass nose of wartime bombers has inspired one of the smartest features of modern architecture for homes.

This is the skydome—a bubble-like skylight—designed to bring daylight into interior parts of a house.

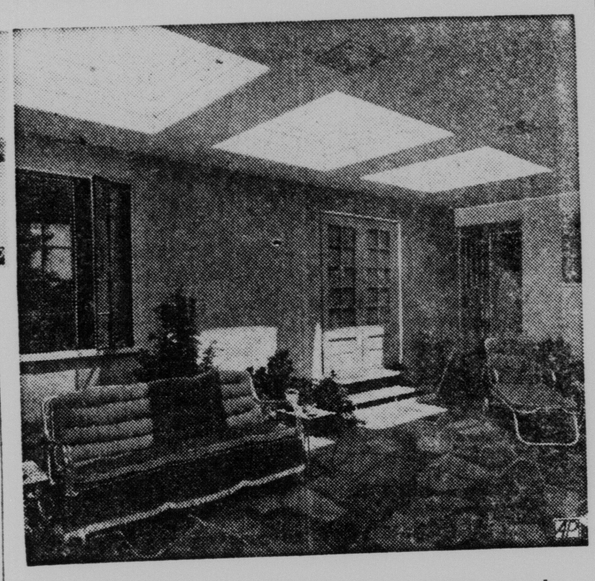

Acrylic plastic has been molded into domes sealed in rustproof circular or rectangular frames that are easily flashed into roofs to bring sunlight into dark hallways, closets, interior bathrooms, inner reaches of living rooms, multi-purpose rooms and modern indoor porches.

Either horizontal roller shades or venetian blinds are stretched across the wells under these skydomes to provide control over direct sunlight as desired. Tension and edge support of such blinds prevent sagging.

One big advantage of these molded plastic domes is the elimination of the multi-ribbed construction and hammered wire glass used in the conventional skylight. The unobstructed expanse of plastic is claimed to provide more than 60 percent more overhead daylight than can be obtained through old fashioned skylights.

The dramatic possibilities of such skydomes in a house are aptly summed up by J. H. Leonard of the Wasco Flashing Co., Cambridge, Mass., manufacturers. He says, "You can imagine how pleasant it is to sit in a living room or on a covered porch and be able to look up at the stars in the evening, or see the branches of a beautiful tree above you in daylight."

These plastic domes are made in both clear colorless form and white translucent, which diffuses direct light while reflecting infra-red rays. Each type has its advantages in different locations.

The domes are made in square, rectangular and circular shapes ranging from 14¼ inches square to 5 by 8 feet. The plastic is sealed in rustproof frames with neoprene cork gaskets and surrounded by condensation gutters to collect any moisture formed on the interior surface.

Resilient Type Floor Coverings Easy To Use

Floors in most new buildings are suitable for most types of resilient floor coverings.

But sometimes it may be necessary to smooth off rough spots in a concrete floor with a quick-set underlayment, or apply a heavy layer of asphalt underlayment over the entire area.

Then there is the sandy type of concrete floor that keeps dusting, and must be corrected before installing a resilient floor covering.

On wood floors, nails driven here and there may correct springy places and eliminate the danger of tile cracking along the seams of the boards. Or, with wide, uneven underfloor boards, an underlayment board may be necessary for a satisfactory installation.

Kentile, Inc. has recommendations for ideal underfloors and underlayments.

Kitchen Home Office Eases Housewife's Job

The kitchen is a good place for the "home office," where the housewife in today's space-saving house can place her orders, file her bills and do the planning for the family.

This office needs no desk. A comparatively small corner of counter-top will provide for memo pad and bill spindle.

A good desk pen, similar to those used in banks, with a reservoir for a year's supply of ink, will prevent pencil hunts. These pens won't spill even when overturned.

Plastic Plywood Smoothes Concrete

Concrete surfaces smooth enough to be painted directly without further finish are being produced by the use of forms made of plywood surfaced with plastic.

This surfacing is credited with changing soft-wood, such as Douglas fir plywood, into a hard surfaced material. The trick is turned by fusing resin-impregnated fiber sheets, called Kimpreg, to plywood veneers.

The resultant product is rated at 33 times greater in wet-abrasion resistance over ordinary plywood, making it possible to re-use it many more times for concrete forms.

Use A Shirtboard As Painting Guard

A piece of cardboard, such as the cardboard on which a laundered shirt is wrapped, comes in very handy when painting. It can be used to protect the wall, floor, or window glass when painting baseboards, shoe molds, trim, or window frames.

Hold this cardboard against the floor, for example, and move it along as you paint the shoe mold and baseboard. You won't have to worry about brush overlaps or drippings.

Or you can use masking tape, which is made for such purposes and easily pulled up after using.

Remodeling Is Simplified By Planning

Repairing or remodeling a home is bound to involve some muss and fuss, so the more planning you do before starting a project, the more you can keep disorder at a minimum and get the work done on schedule.

The typical modernizing job comprises two phases — the planning and the actual work. Here are some pointers on organizing each stage.

1. Make your plans carefully and then give yourself time to think them over. Never rush into a remodeling project with incomplete plans. To start to build a fireplace in your living room on Dec. 20, for example, is going to mean that Santa Claus undoubtedly will have to stumble over bricks and mortar.

2. Get estimates on all work to be done and on all meterials to be used. Carelessness on these points may put you in the position of trying to do today's work on yesterday's budget. Prices seem to change faster than cash on hand.

3. Use quality materials where quality counts. Labor is a major item in any remodeling project and labor costs on shoddy materials amount to the same as for quality materials. Such standard items as clay tile for baths and kitchens may cost a little more but promise a lifetime of service.

4. The same goes for workmanship. Skilled craftsmanship is more economical than an inexperienced dub. The only thing permanent about a botched job is disappointment.

5. Don't change your mind or your plans after work has started. Changes cost money and your contractor has to pass the cost on to you. Patient planning can avoid this.

6. Clear everything out of the room or space to be done over. you can't expect the workmen to know what value you place on your china, pictures or furniture, and you will be paying them for their time.

7. Close off other rooms to prevent the spread of dust and dirt. Place shoe wiping mats to prevent grit from being tracked through the house. If the workmen don't clean up at the end of a day, do it yourself to prevent accidents, especially if there are children in the house.

Deeper Basements For Higher Ceilings

"If basements ever are taken out of the dungeon class they will have to have higher ceilings."

It is a good tip for anyone planning a new home. To make the basement a foot or so deeper than usual, to give it a good ceiling height of 8 feet or more, adds very little cost.

Hardwood Flooring Test Is Simple

When buying hardwood flooring, it is a wise policy to make sure that the lumber is not mixed. Sometimes soft woods are included in bundles of flooring lumber.

Soft woods can be used for flooring in many cases, but when mixed with hardwood in areas intended for heavy usage, they can result in noticeable uneven wear. Bumpy surfaces can develop.

One way to check on the quality of flooring material is suggested by D. S. DeWitt, president of the Maple Flooring Manufacturers Association. This is to weigh suspected flooring against known hardwoods. Soft maple is usually only about three-fourths as heavy as hard maple. Red maple, the heaviest of the soft species, will weigh about as much as four-fifths as much as hard maple. Lengths and other measurements, of course, must correspond.

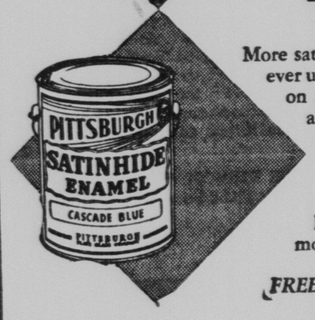

According to De Witt, northern hard maple, beech and birch rank first, second and third in hardness tests. They are customarily bundled separately and marked as to species.

SHINGLE SHAPES

The shape of shingles can produce distinctive patterns on roofs. Modern shingles are made in various sizes and shapes. Square-butt and hexagonal shapes are most common among asphalt shingles in all colors.

KEEP COOL WITH AIR COOLING

For more than 20 years, summer air conditioning has been used in some luxury homes. Now it has been developed on a popular scale for the average house.

Although it still is not cheap, it has been perfected to be economically practicable both in cost of installation and in cost of operation for new homes ranging from $10,000 or $12,000 through the $20,000 price brackets.

Complete conditioning units to cool, dry, filter and circulate summer air throughout all rooms in a house are being installed across the country for as little as $1,000 to $1,500, depending on the size of the house and other factors. Operating costs have been ranging from around $50 to $140 for the season. These costs include electricity or gas and water.

Cases of Actual Costs

Promoters of air conditioning equipment like to quote operating costs on a per-month basis stretched the year-round. On such a basis it has been found that a house of 1,300 square feet (average five or six-room size) in Ohio cost $4.55 per month over the year for cooling in the summer.

Other examples have been: a house of 1,400 square feet in Connecticut cost $6.16 per month over the year; a house in Texas covering 1,600 square feet cost $8.12 per month spread over a year, and a much larger house of 2,600 square feet in St. Louis cost $11.50 per month, year-round for cooling.

Regional differences in summer air conditioning needs are summed up aptly by David E. Feinberg, vice president of the United States Air Conditioning Corp. He observes:

"Obviously, in the South and Southwest, where the cooling season lasts longer than in other sections, the operating costs will be considerably higher."

Well Water Cuts Costs

Wherever well water is available, costs of summer air conditioning can be reduced substantially. In some cases where artesian water can be tapped it is worth while to drill a well. The Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau explains the use of well water as follows:

AIR CONDITIONING heating and cooling units can be recessed in the wall of a finished basement recreation room.

"The water is pumped from the well by an electric pump which forces the water through coils. Warm air from the rooms is drawn to the coils by a fan which also forces the cooled air back to the rooms. A filter cleans the air before it is recirculated. Thermostatic controls make the system entirely automatic, starting the pump and fan when room air reaches the point at which cooling is required."

Feinberg also stresses the importance of water because in most types of air conditioning equipment a large supply of water is used.

"The cost of this water," he says, "will vary from place to place. In some communities it is necessary or desirable to have special equipment (such as cooling towers) to recirculate this water and use it over and over again. There will be an additional cost for this facility and an increased operating cost for its pumps and fans, but there will be a savings in water costs."

Right Size Plant

"Too small equipment," he says, "just will not be able to do the job. Oversized equipment has serious drawbacks, too, aside from the higher initial and operating costs. If the unit is too large it will cool the house too quickly and then be turned off by the thermostat. During the period when it is not in operation, although the temperature may be proper, humidity will build up and the air become stale and stuffy."

Design Is Important

Proper construction of a house is important in keeping air conditioning operating costs down. This not only involves adequate insulation and double glazing wherever possible, but also calls for ample roof overhangs to shade windows, reflective roofs to counteract radiant heat from the sun, shade trees to protect the roof from direct rays of the sun as much as possible, sprinkled lawns to modify surrounding temperatures and attic fans to quickly rid a house of accumulated warm air.

"The simplest of all air conditioning equipment to install and operate," says Feinberg, "is the window type room unit. Generally speaking a ½-ton window type unit will be large enough to cool a room up to 300 square feet in area. A ¾-ton unit will be adequate for a room up to 400 square feet. Such room units need be operated only when the rooms are in use, and can be utilized during cooler weather for ventilation and exhaust. A simple switch controls these various operations."

A Black Ceiling Gives Cellar Height

Aluminum Paint Stops Stain Bleed

Aluminum paint is often used as a barrier over bituminous paints and oil stains to prevent them from bleeding through and discoloring finishing coatings. Painters frequently use aluminum paint as a sealer when changing the color of interior woodwork which previously was stained mahogany. After aluminum paint is thoroughly dry, it can be finished with white or any light tint.

Beware Of Nature When Landscaping Your Home

By KATE PERKINS

A neighbor, pausing for breath while moving a Persian lilac from the deep shade of a 20-foot hemlock to a sunny spot, mopped his brow wearily and remarked

"After 10 years in a house, you spend most of your time digging up all the things you spent the first two years planting."

And such activity is routine, for nothing, except possibly a skinned rabbit, is as naked as a new house. It cries pitiously for covering, for lawn, for trees and for shrubs and more shrubs. It's a tough-minded householder who can resist the impulse to get busy in such an emergency, making all the mistakes of overplanting and mis-planting which will soon make trouble for him.

The one item we are apt to overlook is that trees and plants grow some of them at a fantastic rate. Probably it's not so much oversight as the fact that it is hard to believe that the delicate little bush which is today's forsythia will in just a short time be a sprawling giant quite capable of pushing other plants into the shade and competing with them for food and water.

If any words of advice can be given to the new homeowner, "restraint" is certainly the most important.

Landscaping is something which should be undertaken the hard way, by the application of discipline, by study and by thought. The initial landscaping should be done on ruled paper, with a pencil equipped with an eraser.

First, study whatever trees are already growing on the lot. Try to save the valuable trees and the healthy ones and the trees which will add to the attractiveness and usefulness of your home.

Trees for Privacy

During building operations see that those trees are protected. It's cheaper and smarter to preserve them than to try to replace them with others from a nursery later. Then decide what you want from the rest of the landscaping. Most people today are concerned about privacy. If you would conceal yourself from the road, consider evergreen hedges—hemlock or yew—which are expensive but effective the year-round. If expense is an important consideration, screens of flowering shrubs are handsome, provide color and protection during the out-of-doors seasons.

When it's the looks of the house and grounds you're concerned about, there are fences, clipped hedges and flowering hedges. In either case, the advice of a good nurseryman will be helpful.

Foundation plantings are attractive, but not as important today as in the days of high ugly foundations. Most new home owners, operating on limited budgets, find it better to sink their money in unit plantings—a corner clump or a border screen—than to scatter bushes and specimen trees in a confused pattern around the lawn.

Advantages of Landscaping

Basically, landscaping is designed to tie the home and its grounds into a single, handsome and integrated package. It also goes a long way toward making a house more pleasant to live in, to provide sunlight and shade in the proper proportions and at the desired time for the out-door-living portions, to screen less attractive areas. And the whole thing should be designed for ease of maintenance.

All this takes imagination and above all, patience. A well landscaped place was not built in a day nor in a year. But in the long run, planning and caution saves money — and ultimately muscle when today's young tree becomes a towering giant.

Remove Paint By Electrical Device

An electric paint remover, designed to peel paint with the aid of radiant heat and without the fire hazards involved in the use of a blow torch, has been developed by the industrial heating department of the General Electric Co. at Schenectady, N. Y.

The device comprises two skids between which is mounted a 1,000-watt, 115-volt tubular heating unit. As this heater is slid along a painted surface, its radiation softens and blisters the paint so that it can be removed readily with a putty knife.

Old paint can be removed continuously as the operator slides the heater along with one hand and follows with putty knife in the other hand. The skids keep the heat at a safe and constant distance from the painted surface, while two metal reflectors keep the plastic handle cool.

Fire Safe Garage Wall Saves Home

Many building codes require a fire retarding wall between a house and its garage.

Although experts say it is almost impossible to make a house absolutely fireproof, it is comparatively easy to make a house fire safe.

Building materials which are fire-resistant can confine a fire to the room in which it starts or keep it under control until fire fighters arive.

One of the commonest fire-resistant building materials is gypsum in the form of sheathing, or wallboard. Being a mineral it does not burn, nor support combustion. It retards the transfer of heat and helps to keep wood not in direct contact with the flames from igniting.

National Bureau of Standards tests show that wood stud partitions with a half-inch covering of gypsum wallboard on both sides will protect the studs for 40 minutes. A wall of gypsum lath and plaster over wood studs with gypsum sheathing and wood siding has a one-hour fire resistive rating.

When a redwood garage attached to the home of H. A. Bernstein at 6457 Riggs Place, Los Angeles, burned, a gypsum lath and plaster fire wall kept the flames from spreading to the house, although an automobile gasoline tank exploded and the heat cracked the concrete floor and melted the metal of the car.

Bent Bolts Can't Twist

Bolts intended to anchor a wood plate to concrete sometimes have a tendency to crack loose and turn. A mechanic suggests bending the bolts about three inches from the threaded ends before they are set in the concrete. This bend permanently prevents them from turning.

The Fireplace Defies Logic In Home Building

If houses were purely utilitarian and functional as "machines for living" should be, the fireplace would have disappeared about a century ago. Yet, here it is, almost as common as the front door.

No longer needed to heat the house, or to cook our food, it stays on in spite of its reputation as a heat thief, its annoyance to the housewife with its ashes and its high cost for logs—just because we like to look at it.

When television made its bow, even architects predicted the doom of the fireplace. But apparently it take more than reasoning to separate the open fire from our primordial instincts.

So fireplaces take on new shapes in new houses, but they're still fireplaces. And although they refuse to yield to our logic, we can still make logic conform to them.

Primitive affairs, no matter how you dress them, fireplaces seem to look best when treated realistically. So in modern homes the brick or stone facing around the hearth is often carried straight up to the ceiling—sometimes extended across an entire wall.

One of the smartest natural materials used in this manner is cut stone. This is used in its quarried form of thin layers of varigated colors and textures. It ranges from red to green through purples, blues yellows and earth colors, as well as pastel tints. Fossilized patterns, including those of sea shells, are found in Texas.

Two way fireplaces and corner fireplaces modeled after the ancient Norwegian peis, tie in with open planning where one room merges with another. These make the open fire visible from each room.

Air conditioning; radiant floors, walls, ceilings; thermostats and what-not may be thrown out of kilter temporarily, but the average man seems to like to toast his shins and chill his back in front of an open fire.

WHEN TO PAINT

The best time to paint basement floors is in early spring, late fall or winter when basements are heated, dry and free from summer condensation.

Roofs Come In Attractive Pastel Shades

The introduction of light pastel shades in the ceramic granules used for asphalt shingles and gypsum type roofing materials is giving houses top dressings of off-whites, pearl grays, light tints of green, blue or coral.

One result is that the shapes of houses appear to be changing because light colors give appearances of larger masses than impressions created by darker colors. For an average small house with a gabled roof, lighter colored shingles tend to make the roof seem larger and the house taller, In addition, light roofs like white summer clothing, reflect more sunlight and provide added insulating value.

The spreading use of roof colors is seen by experts as breaking down color-timidity and the preponderance of white houses. Faber Birren, color consultant, outlines a variety of exterior color schemes which can be used with pastel shingles. Here are some of Birren's suggestions:

Pearl Gray Roof — Siding may be matched in gray with trim in white or pale yellow. Gray, being neutral, blends with almost any color. A white house with this roof may have trim in pink, flame red, aqua, blue or chartreuse. Pastel shades harmonize easily. Or the body of the house may be pale yellow, pale green, pink or coral—with trim in white or a deeper tone of the house paint.

Pastel Green Roof — House exterior in matching pale green, pale yellow, or even pink or coral. Trim could be white. Or if the house is white, trim could be deep forest green, wine or burgundy.

Pastel Coral Roof — Cheerful in a natural green setting, this roof could accomodate a coral, pale green or pale blue house with white trim. If a white house is preferred, the trim could be coral, burgundy, turquoise or deep blue.

For those who prefer more subdued shades to go with ranch type houses of stone, brick or redwood roof shades of red, green, brown or deep blue.

"It's all a matter of taste," he says. "If you want your home to fit into its setting, keep it in earth colors and on the deep side. But in suburban areas where distinction seems to be what counts, your house can stand out without being bizarre by use of the pastels."

A dark roof accents this two-family dwelling.

Make A Stepladder

An emergency stepladder can be created with a minimum of effort from an ordinary 8-foot or 10-foot straight ladder, suggests the American Builder trade publication of home builders

Merely take two 2 by 4s of the same length as the ladder. Make deep notches in one and of each length to fit the top rung of the ladder securely

Nail pieces of 1 by 4s across these uprights for bracing, making the bottom board about 6 inches longer than the top board. This spreads the legs for safety.

Fit the top rung into the notches, spread the legs about 5 feet apart and use a rope to hold them in that position.

What 'UL' Label Means To Safety In Your Home

The little yellow label marked "UL", which the householder finds on electrical appliances, extension cords, stoves, oil burners and various other places is a seal of safety.

It means that the article labeled is fire-safe provided it is not misused.

It means that the article has been tested and approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.—an organization devoted to the impartial testing of nearly all types of building materials, electrical equipment and various devices used in homes today.

Even the electric train for your little boy, or the toy electric iron your little girl plays with may have been tested and labeled by "UL' for your protection.

More than 375,000 different products touching on almost every phase of modern American life, have gone through rigorous tests of these laboratories. These products have been twisted, tortured burned, stretched, scorched, broken, dropped, and otherwise analyzed for their various abilities to provide safety from fire and shock.

How Tests Are Made

The main laboratories in Chicago, with branches in San Francisco and New York, are non-profit in their operation. Manufacturers pay fees for tests. If you should invent an atomic mousetrap, you could send it to the UL and pay for a test. After it was pounded, cooked, dunked and whatnot, the UL would tell you whether it was safe. And the UL decision would stand, since it is sponsored by the fire insurance companies through the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

All tests of building materials are made in the Chicago lab. Huge furnaces accommodate new type of walls. A wall to be tested for fire safety is built into such a furnace. Thermometers are connected to each square foot of the opposite side of the wall while gas jets play intense flames on the inside surface. The inside temperature goes up to 1,700 degrees, nearly white hot, and is held there for one hour. Then the gas is turned off, the wall is quickly removed and a firehose is turned on the hot wall. If the wall remains intact, it is said to have passed a "one-hour fire test."

Rough Tactics Used

To test ordinary flexiable electrical cord, such as you have on your lamps, a machine twists the wire thousands of times to see how it will survive years of wear in the home.

Electric irons are dropped many times to see if the jar affects their thermostats. Heavy steel balls are thrown against the safety glass of television sets to see if the glass will resist any "implosion" of the picture tube.

If a product will not cause a fire or a shock, and will perform according to specifications, whether it is an asphalt shingle or a 15-ampere fuse, it is going to give the consumer a longer use.

The greatest benefit of the UL label is saving lives and property. But the UL label does not mean that product is foolproof. It means it is safe if used for the purpose and in the manner it is intended.

Non-Skid Bathtubs Are Light Weight

So many people have been seriously injured in bathtub falls that the use of tubs with corrugated bottoms becomes a real long-range economy.

Enameled pressed steel bathtubs, made somewhat in the same way automobile fenders are stamped out, have such non-skid bottoms. Light enough in weight for one man to handle, they are economical for installation and in colors they cost only about the same as white in heavier cast iron tubs.

FLAT PAINT RADIATES

When painting radiators or exposed hot water or steam risers used partly for heat in bathrooms, you can get more heat through flat paint than through a glossy surfaced coating. Metallic finishes such as gilt or aluminum paint transmit the least heat.

The first living passengers to rise from the earth in a balloon are believed to have been a duck, a rooster and a sheep sent up in France in September 1783.

Paint Your Own Furniture And Save

Many of the newer designs are in smart contemporary styles, harmonious either in traditional or modern settings.

Here are some general tips on painting furniture.

1. Surface must be smooth, clean and dry. Wash off grease, wax or oil with turnpentine. Remove dirt with soap, water and ammonia. Fill holes and cracks with wood filler. Use paint remover if finish is cracked or peeling.

2. Sandpaper rough or glossy surfaces, new wood or rusted metal. Wipe with cloth dampened with turpentine.

2. Spread newspapers on the floor to protect it from spills and splashings. Stir coating with paddle or stick. Use a clean, soft bristled brush.

4. Start right for perfect results. As a rule tables and chairs should be placed upside down. Paint legs first. Paint around carved surfaces and finish with light vertical strokes.

5. It is easier and faster to paint horizontal surfaces than vertical ones. Remove drawers, knobs, handles and turn over furniture for horizontal painting if possible.

Finishing ready - to - paint furniture is easier these days with new paints and finishes which create professional finishes for amateur finishers. We have waxed effect stains, for instance, which can be applied easily, after a light sanding.

ADVANTAGE OF BATTERIES

Home burglar alarm systems are safest when operated on current from dry cell batteries. The average home's electric power can be too easily cut from outside the house.

SQUEAKING FLOORS

Most floor squeaks are caused by flooring not being nailed firmly to the subfloor, or having worked loose in places. Nailing through the tops of the board is one remedy. Fourpenny finishing nails usually suffice, being countersunk with the nail head holes filled with putty or wood filler.

From 1947 through 1952, Cuba produced about a fifth of the world's sugar.

New Breeze Makers For Your Home

The ventilating fan in wall, ceiling or window has become one of the most important accessories of the modern home.

Air trapping under ceilings, where windows and doors do not extend all the way to a ceiling (and few ever do), has been an old problem, especially in summer. Because warm air rises, about the only way to dislodge such collections is by forcible ventilation. Ceiling ventilators offer a practicable means.

In homes where the installation of year-round air conditioning systems is too expensive a project, ventilating fans provide another advantage. Most of these devices can be purchased for less than $30. A flip of the ventilator switch clears the air of a room in a matter of minutes. By spotting ventilating fans at strategic points in a house, overheated summer air can be forced out, allowing cooler outdoor air to breeze in at the windows.

A Winter Purpose, Too

In winter ventilating fans are especially important in kitchens and bathrooms. Grease-laden cooking fumes can be readily exhausted over kitchen ranges before they spread through the house to discolor and soil wallpaper and curtains.

Adequate ventilation of bathrooms prevents the condensation of excess moisture on mirrors and walls while shower baths are in operation. An added feature for bathrooms in winter is a three-way combination of ceiling fan, light and heating unit. The heating element is similar to that used in many electric ranges, but it operates on ordinary house current. This is a comfortable auxiliary heater in cold weather, when house temperature is not sufficient for bathing.

The right place to install a ventilating fan is determined to some extent on convenience to the outdoors. In a one-story house it is comparatively easy to run exhaust flues up to the roof for ceiling fans without too many elbows in the ductwork. When a kitchen range is against an outside wall it is easy to place a wall fan above the range.

Figuring Fan Sizes

The size of fan to use is easily estimated. J. Ralph Corbett, president of NuTone, Inc., of Cincinnati, one of the largest makers of ventilators, says an 8-inch fan is adequate for a small kitchen. Medium size, or large kitchens can use a fan with a 10-inch diameter of blade. Corbett explains that the c.f.m. rating of a fan—referring to cubic feet of air per minute, is an important point to check. An 8-inch fan, he says, moves 600 c.f.m., and a 10-inch fan moves 800 c.f.m.

For bathrooms, 8-inch fans are used. For recreation rooms where stale smoke may gather, 10-inch fans are recommended.

Modern ventilating fans are equipped with automatically operated louvers on the outside of the house to keep the rain out. These louvers close on a felt silencer and are kept under spring tension to prevent them from banging in the wind. No screening is needed, since the louvers open only when the fan is sending out a blast too strong for insects to fly against.

Thermometer Can't Keep You Warm

The explanation lies in your own body and not in the house, say the experts.

One reason is that lower winter humidities speed evaporation on the skin surface, producing a cooling effect. Another is that your body loses heat more rapidly when it "absorbs" chill from cold walls, windows and doors. This is the process of radiation—body heat being radiated to surrounding cold objects.

For greatest comfort, set a thermostat for whatever temperature satisfies you, rather than at any arbitrary point which someone else calls healthful.

How To Cultivate Your Good Taste.

In painting a house, decorating a room, upholstering or buying furniture, good taste is a personal thing and no one can say "this is right and that is wrong."

Commenting on this, a recent issue of the Farm Journal observed, "but each person's taste can grow. When we see something new we should look at it again and again. If it is in good taste, chances are we will like it better every time we see it. We learn by exposure to things and ideas."

Decorate From The Outside In

If you're planning a new home, or rebuilding an old house, and wonder how you'll decorate your living room, where do you start?

The time honored advice of decorators is to start with the carpet because it will set a background tone.

But Beatrice West, color consultant in the styling of more than 65,000 homes in the last five years, including the vast Levittown projects, says:

"Start with the roof."

She argues that exterior color schemes should set the pace for interior colors, especially in modern homes with picture windows and window walls that often give a view of part of the exterior. And the roof, like the carpet, forms an overall background mass.

New Point of View

"In the past we assumed that the exterior and the interior had nothing to do with each other," Miss West says. "But designers are beginning to realize that is nonsense. Interior and exterior colors must harmonize for the most unified effect."

The reason this color stylist starts with the exterior of a house is that nature already has established many of the outside keys—colors that will be seen from wide windows.

Even a neighbor's trees or lack of trees have their bearing on this scheme. Maples and birches turning lighter than oaks; dark firs and pines, or plain blue sky; lawns or gardens or thickets, all figure into the color scheme.

With modern roofing materials, such as asphalt shingles, almost monopolizing the market because of economy, Miss West tackles the roof first. The ceramic granules embedded in these roofing materials for fire protection in the surface have given the home builder color choices ranging from off-whites and silver-grays through pastel shades to deep greens and blue-black shades. Agreeable uses of these colors is something the decorator wants to control.

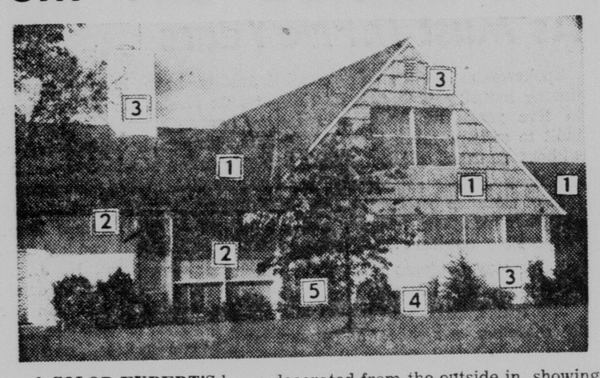

The Glamorous Effect

Miss West contends that builders can get a glamorous and popular effect through the careful use of such colors, making a house look "right." With a roof color set, exterior colors can be selected to harmonize rather than clash. One of her favorite touches is to paint exterior window trim a bright, attention-getting hue. This accents the softer colors she uses on larger exterior areas.

Contemporary house design makes these details important, she says. Large windows unavoidably offer a view both ways.

"Pay attention to what draperies look like on the back or lining side as well as the front," she says. "Remember that the back side of window draperies can be seen through the windows from the outside of the house. If the back of the draperies doesn't blend with the outside colors of the house, the whole effect can be ruined."

A COLOR EXPERT'S home decorated from the outside in, showing how Beatrice West uses color in her own house. Numbers are keyed to the illustration: (1) Gray green. The roof is a variegated gray blend of asphalt shingles in which specks of green, yellow and coral are combined. Gable ends are gray. A celadon green-gray is dominant in the living room, where it is used for carpeting, walls, ceiling and trim, as well as in the sofa fabric. This repetition creates an illusion of spaciousness, Miss West says. (2) Citron yellow is the exterior accent, supplying a "welcoming note" on front door trim and frame of picture window. It contrasts with the gray and is carried out with many yellow and bronze flowers in the yard. A lounge chair and den chairs carry this color indoors. (3) White on exterior brickwork and on the trim where gable ends meet the gray roof calls attention to architectural lines and is carried indoors on lampshades and incidental accessories. (4) Coral on flowers planted for their effect is continued indoors on dining chairs and soft cushions. (5) Red "antiqued" with celadon green was used on the fireplace, which was originally red brick Pine beams were similarly treated to relate them to the entire scheme. All the colors are combined in the draperies, which in this case had to be hand painted. These are of a sheer fabric that give privacy, but let in light and air.

Picture Windows Offer Problem In Air Cooling

Therefore, windows become an extravagance, seriously interfering with their heat loss with economical opeation of air conditioning.

But we have to have windows for light and view, even if the air in a house is regulated automatically.

Since the best way to insulate windows is to double them, creating an insulating air space between panes, we use storm windows in winter in colder climes.

But to leave storm windows up the year-round presents problems. Dust and moisture seep in between the two layers of glass necessitating frequent washings and polishings to maintain a clear view.

Modern double glazing ends that trouble. Two panes of clear glass are sealed with a dehydrated air space between them. No dust, moisture or even air can get into this space. When windows need washing, they need it only on the outdoor and indoor surfaces. The sealed insulating space is permanently clean.

Such double glazing has a double effect, says Harry M. Ives, manager of the Thermopane division of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. It not only makes it possible to have large picture windows and window walls without creating heat loss or heat intake problems, but it also actually reduces the load on air conditioning equipment.

"Case histories of air conditioned buildings," Ives says, "show that the use of double glazing makes it possible to reduce the size of cooling equipment, resulting in substantial savings in original costs as well as in operating expenses."

PORCH PAINTING TIP

It's wise to paint porch floor boards before putting them in place. Paint the boards all over. If only the tops are painted, moisture can enter from the under side, causing the wood to deteriorate and eventually causing the paint to blister.

PAINT BRUSH CARE

It is not necessary to clean a paint brush thoroughly when putting it aside overnight or for a few days if you wrap the bristles in wax paper and seal the edges with masking tape to keep the air out. The paint in the bristles will then remain soft.

Concrete Floors Can Be Painted Successfully

Concrete floors can be painted successfully if proper precautions are taken.

Whether you plan to paint a basement floor, garage floor, porch or breezeway floor, the type of paint to be used will be determined by several factors.

If the concrete has been laid on the ground, such as most basement floors, rising moisture and natural alkali will destroy ordinary paint. Rubber resin base paints are not suppoed to be affected by alkali as much as ordinary paints, but if the floor is not dry, no coating can be expected to stick to it.

If a concrete floor is excessively dusty or crumbly, no paint can be expected to last long on it until the fault has been corrected in the concrete by a new surfacing.

If the floor has been painted before and patches of old oil paint or enamel remain, it is wise to remove the old paint before applying rubber base paint. Since the old paint failed in some places, it eventually will fail in the others and the new covering will come off with it.

If a concrete floor has been steel trowelled to give it a slick, glassy surface, it must be etched with acid to give paint a good bond.

To determine whether a floor is dry, lay a rubber mat or a piece of linoleum down for a few days. If it shows a dark spot when removed, rising moisture is indicated.

To remove old paint, sanding, paint remover or lye are effective. Ventilation and precautions against fire are highly important in the use of paint removers. A lye solution can be spread with sawdust over the old paint and left moist over night. This is then scraped up with the paint the following morning, washed down with thriodium phosphate detergent and rinsed with clear water. The floor should then dry for a week.

Rubber gloves and rubber shoes or galoshes are needed when working with lye, paint removers or with acid.

For etching a concrete floor a solution of 1 part muriatic (hydrochloric) acid to 3 parts water is scrubbed in with a long handled stiff bristled brush. The acid is left to fizz until the surface is well roughened and then flushed off with plenty of clear water. The floor is allowed to dry for at least a week and must be thoroughly dry before painting.

Why Build Over A Basement?

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
Associated Press Real Estate Ed.

Why build a house with a basement?

Compact modern heating plants, using oil, gas or electricity, take up no more space than a refrigerator, eliminating the need for large coal-storage bins. Virtually all women prefer laundries on the ground floor where they are rid of stair climbing. Builders have demonstrated that it is entirely practicable to build sound and comfortable houses without basements in the coldest regions.

So why pay for a basement?

Architects and builders, even engineers for government agencies have explored this subject to give you the best answer. The shortest answers are offered by Rudolph A. Matern, famous architect and authority on home planning. He says:

1. "Because most people outside of the southern states, prefer basements, and

2. "Because basements provide the cheapest space that can be built."

A Trend is Reversed

For years it appeared that basements were definitely on the way out. The Housing and Home Finance Agency in Washington made a survey of all houses built in 1950 and found that full basements were provided in only about 36 per cent of the homes.

"Virtually all the rest had no basements, showing the shift toward crawl-space and slab - on - grade construction," that report said.

Arvid Peterson, veteran home builder and president of the Homograf Corp., in East Detroit, Mich., said:

"If you asked me a year or two ago, I would have said that 20 years from now there would be no more basements. Today the outlook is entirely reversed."

A large scale home builder on New York's Long Island erected two identical sample houses. One had a basement, the other had none. The house with a basement was priced at almost $1,000 more than the basementless house. Nine out of 10 buyers ordered houses with basements, willing to pay the extra price.

What People Want

Architect Matern now predicts a new trend — the glamourizing of the basement. He bases his prediction on one of the most exhaustive studies that have been made on this subject.

Analyzing more than 116,500 inquiries he has received from prospective home builders since 1946 and more than 38,000 houses built from his plans, Matern has found that in very small houses (up to 900 square feet) basements are preferred. In medium sized houses (from 900 to 1,100 square feet) building on a slab is acceptable. In larger houses (over 1,100 square feet in area) basements again are in big demand.

Matern then made a specific test. He designed a three-bedroom house which could be built for the same amount of money with or without a basement. When a basement was included the house covered 1,066 square feet—a popular medium size. By omitting the basement 220 square feet could be added to that house for the same cost. This permitted the addition of an adequate utility room to accommodate the heating plant, enlargement of the kitchen for laundry space and the provision of a multipurpose room measuring 10 by 14 feet—all for the same cost as the basement.

The result? Only 30 per cent of the families who built houses from those plans chose the larger house with no basement.

Bargain Space is Offered

No average family needs all the space a basement provides—but it is bargain space no matter what building costs prevail when a house is built. Architect Matern sums it up this way:

"You get very usable space for about $1 a square foot. To build that space above ground would cost many times that amount. While the cost of building a house may range around $13 to $14 a square foot because of kitchen and bathroom equipment included, even to enlarge a house without the addition of such extras would probably run around $7.50 a square foot in contrast to $1 for basement space.

"Furthermore, that basement space could be made very livable, attractive, comfortable and healthful for no more than a total of $1.50 a square foot."

He makes this prediction:

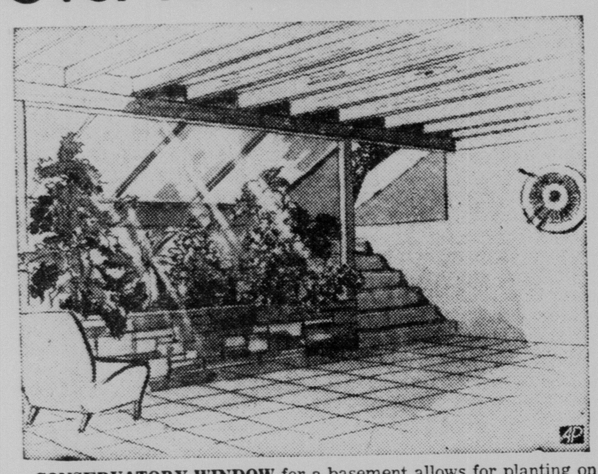

"As long as there is such an obvious demand for basements, there is certain to be a revolution in the design of basements. How would you like to live in a living room or bedroom with only one or two small windows up at the ceiling? There is no good reason for planning basements with such dismal window arrangements.

Flowers and Sunshine

"Basements should and will have more and bigger windows. Instead of having basement windows and areaways outside of them only about two feet deep and very slightly wider, why not enlarge the windows to perhaps four feet square, with large and deep areaways covered with glass and screening in greenhouse fasion?

"In this way plants and flowers could thrive on terraces in the areaways, sunlight could stream into the basements making them pleasant and cheerful places for game rooms, a study, a dry and healthful indoor playground for children.

CONSERVATORY WINDOW for a basement allows for planting on terraces in a glass covered areaway. Rudolph A. Matern, architect, shows in this sketch how the job can be done.

Why Window, Door Screens Need Paint

Window and door screens of steel, galvanized iron, copper or bronze always should be painted. Steel or iron mesh is painted to prevent rust. Copper and bronze do not rust, but corrode and develop stains; therefore, they need protective coatings.

Spar varnish or special screen enamels, available in all well-stocked paint stores, are used for this work. Either of those materials can be applied with a spray gun, brush or inexpensive screen applicator made from a block of wood covered with a carpet on one side.

To prevent openings in the mesh from becoming clogged, the varnish or enamel is thinned and after it is applied to each side of the screen, the screen is shaken to prevent the accumulation of drops.

Both sides of a screen are painted before the frame is painted.

'Leave' The Leaves Leave Your Roof

To keep leaves from clogging roof gutters, galvanized wire netting of quarter-inch or half-inch size fastened along the tops of the eavestroughs can be very effective.

Some building supply houses carry fabricated screens of this type with metal edging designed to hold the screens in place. But satisfactory screens can be readily cut from stock mesh, slipped under gutter hangers and bent around edges to be secure.

Harrison Todd, building materials dealer of Sacramento, Calif., tells of having installed screens of this type eight years ago with the result that the roof gutters have not needed cleaning since.

Air Conditioning Seen As 'Must' In Five Years

Spokesmen for the air conditioning industry predict that within five years no house will be built to sell for more than $15,000 without summer air conditioning.

Why, you mak ask, is this feature of summer cooling so important when we spend as many hours as possible outdoors in summer?

1. We stay outdoors most of the time to keep cool.

2. Experts say that according to scientific evidence, a person even in physical repose is seriously handicapped in efficiency when the temperature rises above 90 degrees.

3. A person engaged in physical activity, such as the average housewife, operates under sharply reduced capacity when the temperature is above 80.

4. The average person reaches a point of physical discomfort when temperature is 79 and relative humidity tops 50 percent.

5. Summer dust, not filtered out of the air, is known to aggravate hay fever and other respiratory troubles, while apathy and inability to sleep because of heat and humidity have been blamed for organic strains, including those of the heart.

In summer air conditioning, complete sealing of windows and doors is essential to efficient operation of the plant. S. J. Levine, general manager of the General Electric home heating and cooling department at Bloomfield, N. J., says planning a new house around an air conditioning system can partly offset the cost of installation.

Money can be saved, he says, by eliminating windows in places where they add nothing to the appearance of your house or to the view, but normally would be installed only for ventilation.

The practical value of screened porches and breezeways also is eliminated, he contends, by filtered and conditioned air throughout a house.

Laundry and dry cleaning bills on such items as draperies and rugs should reflect the economy of cleaned and filtered air in a house, he says.

Ventilation Of Walls May Stop Paint Peeling

Ventilation of the walls and roof spaces of a house lacking adquate vapor barriers often is the only solution of moisture problems, which cause outside paint to peel, wood to rot and mildew odors to annoy.

"The humidity within the wall can be relieved to the outside by proper ventilation of the wall. One-inch holes, one in each linear foot of wall, at the top and bottom of the cold air space venting to the weather will prevent considerable condensation troubles in cavity type walls."

Midget louvers are handy for capping such holes and keeping insects out. These devices fit snugly into one-inch holes, require no nails or screws, and have collars that completely cover the edges of the holes. Made of aluminum, they are rust proof and contain aluminum screens behind their louvers.

Sizes up to 4 inches in diameter are used under eaves to keep air circulating under roofs.

The hazards of moisture in walls are summed up by Frank J. Scalon, Norwalk, Conn., manufacturer of midget louvers, as follows:

"When moisture blistering of paint occurs it is a warning that moisture mites (minute decay organisms in the form of dry rot fungus) will develop and destroy the lumber, which means that the studs, sheathing, sills, etc., must be replaced at considerable expense.

"These minute decay organisms are a greater menace than termites or other wood-eating insects."

Now's The Time To Feed Those Lawns

Summer droughs are not unusual. Last year's dryness was worse than usual over most sections of the country, however, because fall rains failed to materialize.

Soils generally went into cold weather deficient in moisture. Turf vigor was reduced because the grasses could not tillerout as they normally do in late fall and winter.

This early spring program is more important than ever. Now is the time to make plans. Outdoor activity on the lawn is a rewarding challenge and a fine spring tonic.

Put Scotts Turf Builder in front of the grass before it awakens. It can use the root strenghtening phosphates, the growth stimulating nitrogen, the tonic of potassium as the grass begins to stir and stretch. Grass feeds on soil nutrients even before it starts to green up in spring.

Get rid of matted leaves and trash that smother grass and prevent contact of seed with soil. A broom rake uproots fewer plants.

BUILDING PAPER LETS HOUSE BREATHE

Sheathing paper should never be air tight. It is intended to shed water, which may leak into joints in siding, but it must be porous enough to permit the passage of vapor. The use of vapor-tight papers and building felts over sheathing, puts a vapor barrier in the wrong place, where cold outdoor air can cause warmer moisture in the wall to condense into water.

WHAT PEOPLE WANT IN A HOME

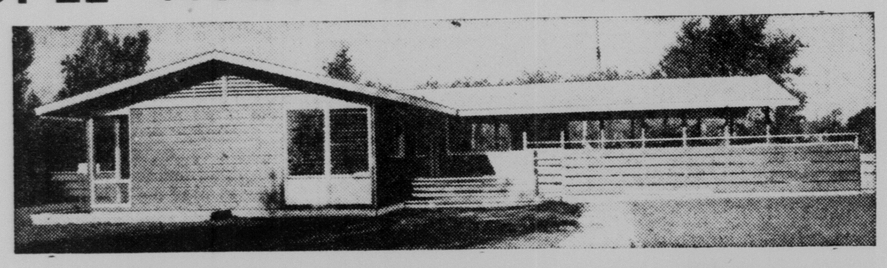

New inventions are bringing about more changes in modern homes than the average new house indicates. You may find a few innovations in one house and a few in another, but when a maximum of tried and tested new wrinkles are grouped together, an entirely new house results.

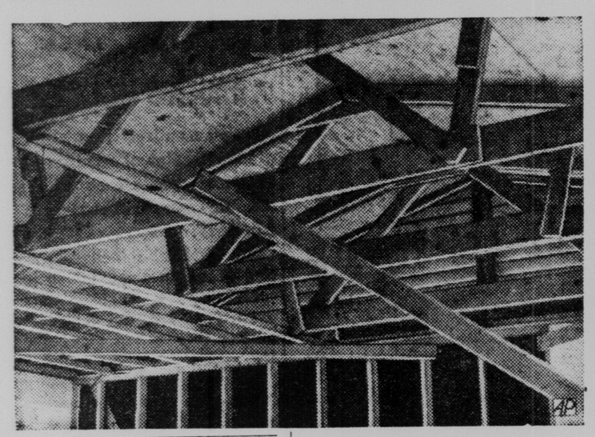

This has happened in Wichita, Kan.

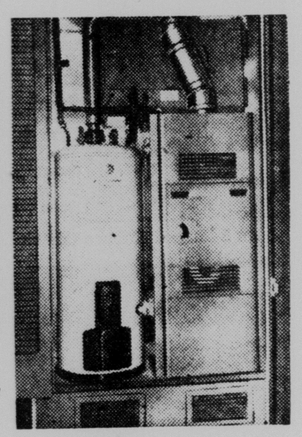

A house has been erected there to demonstrate what people said they wanted and liked in a national survey. The house includes more money saving features than architects and builders are likely to find in a one-house show in a long time.

In the first week it was opened, 22,500 persons passed through its doors.

A good sized home—comprising 1,266 square feet, plus 444 square feet of carport and storage space—this house is air conditioned the year-round and designed to sell between $13,500 and $14,000 in the Wichita market, which is not among the low cost areas.

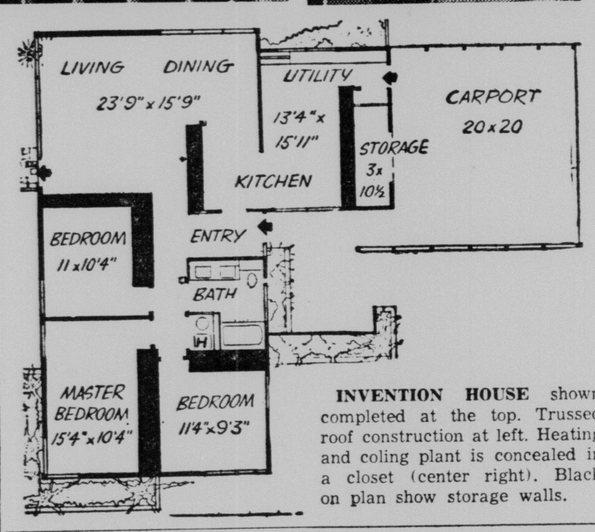

Some Unusual Features

With a trussed roof, instead of the usual rafters, it has no load bearing partitions. Its entire oak finished floor was laid in one operation. Then storage walls—rows of prefabricated, pre-painted closets—were moved in to create the separate rooms.

Sills and plates of the framework were fastened to the foundation by shooting steel pins out of a Remington gun, instead of by meticulously boring holes to fit the timbers over previously embedded bolts.

Windows and doors, including large floor-to-ceiling corner windows, pre-fitted in load bearing frames, were set in as the framework went up, eliminating the conventional practice of going back and installing these parts after completing the framing.

These window and door frames require no interior trim around them. Their edges are mortised to permit standard gypsum wallboard to be fitted in snugly without cutting it from its modular dimensions.

Fast Building Features

The outside of the house is finished with shiplap siding, each board automatically levelling over the top edge of the lower board by virtue of a notch, or rabbet.

The entire house stands on a floating monolithic slab for which footings, foundation and subfloor are poured in one operation instead of three.

"This house could be put up in 18 days after the slab is poured." says Ken Stowell, the builder. "The actual time consumed on this demonstration house was between 25 and 26 days, with a five-man crew. That included the setting of the storage partitions."

As for savings, the builder cites first the simplified pouring of the foundation in which two complete operations are dropped. Then he lists the time saved by using the gun to shoot the anchoring pins.

Many Big Economies

He used oak flooring because of local demand, but by laying it in one continuous run before any partitions were in, he said he saved 30 per cent in labor.

Stowell estimates the prefabricated load bearing window frames cut $200 to $250 from labor and materials. He credits the shiplap siding with saving 60 per cent in labor times.

Raising the roof trusses took this builder a day and a half without any jig operation. Because of the spacing of the trusses, he could use industrial plywood for roof sheathing. Although the roof overhang is unusually wide—3 feet—he needed no soffit finishing on the underside. Paint was applied directly to the plywood.

Ned A. Cole, architect of Austin, Texas, who designed the house, says open planning and ease of circulation dictated the layout.

"You can get to any part of the house from the entrance hall without entering any other part of the house." Architect Cole explains. "You can get to the bedrooms from the front door, or from the kitchen, without going through the living room. The dining room is off the kitchen for easy serving. Terrace and living room adjoin, so that in good weather you have an exceptionally large living area."

What People Ask For

Yet neither the architect, nor the builder was striving to be "just different" with this house. They were commissioned by the Coleman Co., manufacturers of home heating and cooling equipment to produce the house in accordance with the results of a national survey.

The survey showed what people liked and wanted most in a new home. Year-round air conditioning was one of these wants. The inclusion of this feature in the Wichita show house was responsible for still more innovations.

Large glass areas are of the picture window type, fixed and not opened. But to meet persistent inclinations to open windows, especially between seasons, adjustable glass slats, or jalousies are provided in lower panes. However, the air conditioning system in the house includes a fresh-air intake from the attic, where entire gable ends are devoted to louvers for efficient roof ventilation.

The air conditioning plant operates on the high-velocity, 3½ inch duct system with blending chambers for recirculation of certain percentages of indoor air to keep operating costs down. Even new ceiling blenders are engineered to induce a certain amount of gentle suction of room air into the mixing chambers.

Because of the way the house is built and the way the heating and cooling system is installed, any changes in room sizes or arrangements would be simple by shifting the storage walls.

This one-big-room principle of building is credited by the builder with saving about 30 per cent in man hours of labor in the application of the gypsum wallboard. Cutting and taping is minimized by the elimination of wall and ceiling corners in individual rooms, he says, and by modular measurements.

Conditioned Air Assumes Fancy Airs

Wonderful claims are being made for air conditioning.

Enthusiasts say a hostess' make-up will stay fresher! Our cereals and crackers won't get soggy. Heat rash on the baby will be less likely and he, or she, will nap comfortably summer and winter. The piano won't need tuning so often. We'll have less jittery nerves because there will be less likelihood of falling plaster. There'll be an "alleviation of allergies"; our clothes won't wilt and we won't mildew!

No matter if you have the sniffles when you come out of a movie in the summer time, air conditioning your own house will mean no drafts, so more safeguard against colds—so say the air conditioners.

All of which might be true.

House Design May Change

This system of controlling the temperature, the humidity and the dust content of the air in our own homes has certain possibilities. In fact it may change the design of houses quite radically.

Cloud Wampler, president of the Carrier Corp., manufacturers of air conditioning equipment, expects one of the biggest changes in house design to be in windows. Since it is unnecessary and undesirable to open windows when the air in a house is being controlled, unmovable windows may be used more and more.

Windows, says this observer, will not be arbitrarily placed to achieve cross-ventilation. There will be no need for corss-ventilation, so windows will be located only for the best light and view. Walls facing a neighbor's house will need no windows. Interior rooms will be as well ventilated as any rooms and may be equipped with skylights.

No Screens Needed

Double glazing of fixed windows will eliminate the use of storm sash and no screens will be needed. Wampler thinks screened porches may vanish when it is more comfortable to stay in the house than to relax outdoors.

A further trend away from basements is envisioned through the compactness of modern air conditioning plants. Greater utilization of space in the core of a house will continue to reduce waste space and therefore cut building costs.

As for the light and fantastic claims for air conditioning, Wampler's attitude is "Why not?" Easier housekeeping is inevitable with constantly filtered, humidified, or dehumidified air, he says. Moisture control, he contends, should solve many condensation problems, prevent the drying out and cracking of chairs, floors and doors, make house plants grow better and keep cut flowers fresher.

Fire Costs Small Home Owner The Most

If you own a house that is worth less than $20,000, chances are that a fire could cost you as much as it would cost your insurance company.

This is because the average small home owner does not increase his fire insurance coverage in accordance with current increasing property values. John A. Arnold, vice-president of the National Retailers Mutual Insurance Co., says some small home owners can expect to collect less than 75 per cent of actual cash value in the event their houses are destroyed by fire.

In contrast, Arnold says, most owners of larger homes could collect enough to pay for complete new houses in cases of total destruction, because they have been more careful to keep their insurance adequate to cover current value.

Appraisal figures cited indicate that because of reproduction costs the $8,000 house of 1946 now averages around $12,400 in value; the $12,500 house of 1946 is now roughly worth $19,375.

Woodwork Stain Colors Keep Peace In A House

The average man would like to have woodwork that looks like wood work, with the natural beauty of the wood maintained without hiding it under paint.

The average woman contends woodwork should be the same color as the walls, to make it unobtrusive. When the walls are repainted, she tells the painter to use the same paint on the woodwork. When the walls are papered she stands over the painter until he gets an exact match with the predominant wallpaper color for her woodwork.

A happy compromise has now been worked out by one of the leading paint and varnish manufacturers in the development of wood stains in 169 colors. With colored stain, woodwork can match a woman's color scheme and still reveal all of the natural texture and grain of wood.

To the average person, accustomed to thinking of stain in shades of brown, or at the most in gray, the development of stains in pastel pinks, blues, yellows, and greens opens an entirely new field for wood finishes.

The accurate portrayal of the color effects of these stains on different types of wood is impossible to achieve on the usual paper color tabs of paint charts. To overcome this, the Martin-Senour Co. of Chicago has had color booklets prepared with actual wood chips, shaved paper thin, showing now major shades of 169 colors would appear.

Close-grained interior woods can produce a softer pinkish cast under one stain, while the same stain used on exterior cedar results in a russet to brown effect. Only natural wood chips can show such differences. Because of this difference a few of the more delicate colors are not recommended for exterior use.

General rules for staining close-grained interior woods, such as birch, maple, gum, white pine, fir, poplar and cedar call for thorough sanding with the grain followed by careful dusting. A coat of colored stain is then brushed on and allowed to dry until three-fourths of the suface appears "flattened out"—usually about 15 to 30 minutes.

Excess stain is then wiped off with a clean rag and 12 to 15 hours are allowed for drying. Two thin coats of spar varnish or glear gloss are then applied with the first coat sanded lightly with 00 sandpaper after it has dried. A dull or rubbed effect can be obtained by using dull varnish for the final coat.

Open grained interior woods such as oak, korina, mahogany, walnut, chestnut, ask and elm call for the addition of transparent wood filler to the stain. After the "flattening out" period, a coarse cloth or burlap is rubbed across the grain to fill all pores. The same cloth is used to remove excess filler. After drying, this coat is sanded lightly before the finishing varnishing is started.

When To Go On Red And Stop On Green

Robert D. Eckhouse, author of "The Wise Handbook on Masonry and Waterproofing," says green and blue should be avoided "because the chemicals used in these colors weaken the cement and will rub off."

Family Of The SUBTERRANEAN TERMITE

These are the various castes or forms of Subterranean Termites that work while you work in your home or at the office, only you do not see them. Their work is done in wood, carpets, linoleum, books, insulation on wires, clothing or any product that contains cellulose. They work 24 hours per day, 7 days a week. They always conceal themselves from light and air.

THE SWARMER . . . are the reproductives of the colony, either males or females, and known as king and queen. They usually swarm in the spring, occasionally in the fall; after or during their flight they will shed their wings, then pair off male and female and start new colonies in the earth. Many times the swarm will take place on the outside of the building and the home owner is unaware of their presence. By killing every last one of these swarmers you will not have solved your problem, due to the fact that the parent or original colony that the swarmer or reproductives were reared by are still living in the soil. The queen termite has been known to live for as long as 25 years. They lay thousands of eggs per day.

THE WORKER TERMITE . . . is a cream or ivory colored insect, has six legs and one pair of antennas, it is approximately 3/16 of an inch long. They work continually gathering food which is wood or any cellulose product. This food is fed to the queen, king, soldiers and the young. The worker likewise cares for the eggs. Their entrance to a building is from the soil, usually up through the voids of wall irregardless as to whether the walls are brick, stone, concrete, block or tile. Yes, we have many times seen them work through concrete where it was of a poor mix, rotted or cracked to as much as 20 inches thick. Their life span is usually two or three years.

THE SOLDIER TERMITE . . . is very similar to the worker, slightly larger however, and has an armored red head with a pair of mandibles or jaws which they use to protect the colonies from other invading insects. The soldiers and workers are both sterile and blind, however, many times they have been called the best air conditioning engineers in the world.

EXTERMITAL TERMITE SERVICE
Does offer you protection against these ravishing insects. Extermital guarantees every property that we service for a period of five years, at the end of the 5-year guaranteed period, the client can have this termite protection renewed every three years for as long as they wish. Our guarantees are backed up by money in the bank and administered by a bonded trustee.

Plan Strategy In The Kitchen

The secret of kitchen efficiency is the arrangement of range, sink and refrigerator in a plan which requires few steps between each and which leaves space for all the extras you consider important in your dream kitchen.

From three basic kitchen designs—the one-wall lineup, the L-shape and the U-shape arrangement—many variations can be achieved.

In the one-wall kitchen, all appliances, cabinets, and work surfaces are stretched out in a row. This plan works well in limited space, but the wall becomes too long to be practical if much storage space is desired.

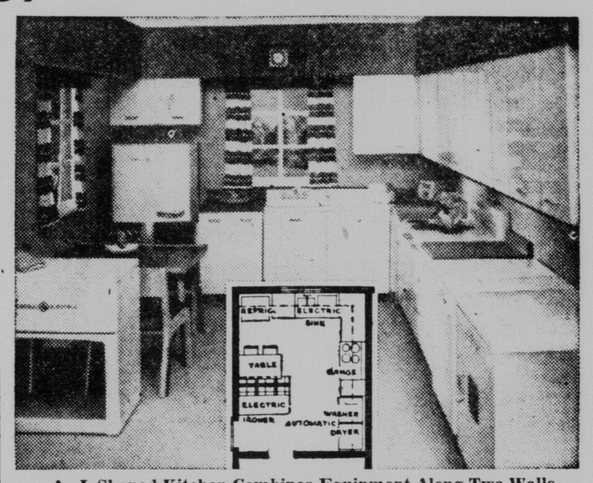

By bending the one-wall kitchen around a corner, an L-shape is formed which allows more space for additional cabinets. Bending still another corner forms the U-shaped kitchen so that still more cabinets and work surfaces can be added.

Once the kitchen work unit has been planned, the remaining floor and wall space is available for individual family needs. One homemaker might feel that with growing children a laundry area is a "must." Another homemaker, however, might feel that nothing is more important than a kitchen dining area.

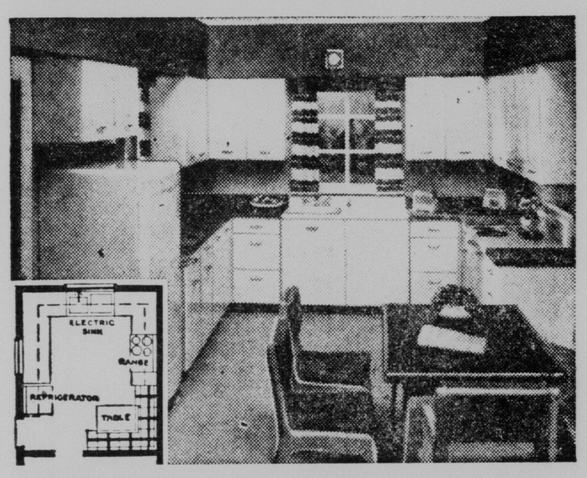

There are often many different layouts for a kitchen plan, even though the dimensions of space or location of windows or doors remain the same. For this reason, planning is particularly important before a house is completely finished, giving the homemaker a choice of kitchen arrangement.

To emphasize this point, kitchen experts of the General Eelctric Home Bureau took a room of 14' by 11'4" with two windows and two doors. Without changing windows, they were able to plan 14 different kitchens—some with a dining area, some with laundry equipment, and others with both

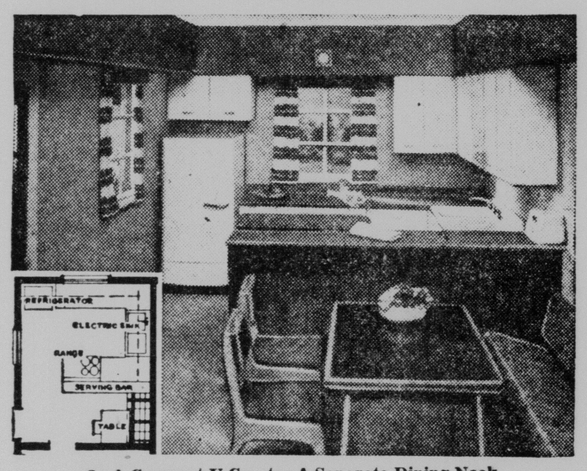

The plans cover all conditions average buyers asked for in kitchens including refirgerator, range, dishwasher, planning desk, snack bar, cabinets and work counters, and complete home laundries with automatic washer, dryer, and ironer.

An L-Shaped Kitchen Combines Equipment Along Two Walls.

In The Same Space, A U-Shaped Kitchen Uses Three Walls.

Or A Compact U Creates A Separate Dining Nook.

How To Judge A House Like An Appraiser

When you examine a house with an idea of buying it, you can take some good tips from an appraiser —the man who specializes in placing values on houses.

Some of the points to be considered were recently summed up in The Review of the Society of Residential Appraisers. These points were compiled by Lawrence C. Lockley of the School of Commerce of the University of Southern California;

1. Looking at the underside of a house will reveal the condition and size of structural lumber, adequacy of nailing, signs of serious slippage or settlement, evidence of dry rot or termites, rust at the joints of plumbing pipes. Rapping the pipes with a hard object discloses whether the pipes are clear or clogged with limestone deposits.

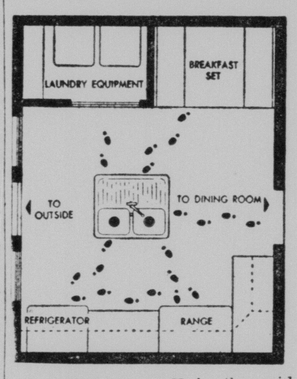

2. Mitering above door framing is inspected for quality of workmanship. If there has been much planing of the doors, it usually indicates swelling of wood, poor fit, settling of the house or poor construction.

3. Tile work is also examined to see whether there has been movement or settling.

4. Even after careful redecorating, excessive cracking of plaster can be detected by running the fingertips over the surface of the wall.

5. General quality can be checked by an experienced appraiser who notes the type of furnace, water heater, bath and kitchen fixtures and other equipment, as well as lumber and other materials. These and many other clues noted during inspection enable the appraiser to estimate the annual rate of repair expenses and whether they will increase unduly over the years.

Dean Lockley concluded that the man who doesn't know how to analyze construction details or who fails to recognize potential neighborhood changes that will affect the value of the property cannot correctly term himself an appraiser.

A MIDWAY SINK in the middle of a kitchen can be handy to breakfast table, refrigerator and range with a minimum of steps for the housewife.

U-Shaped Kitchen Proves Popular

The U-shaped kitchen has come into favor because of its allowance for efficient arrangement in the saving of steps.

However, the placement of doors and windows in an individual kitchen and the amounts of wall space available usually dictate the arrangement of kitchen equipment.

A general and flexible rule is to think of each division of appliances, adjacent cabinets and work surfaces as a "work center."

The major work centers of a kitchen are usually around the sink and china cupboards, the range and pan storage compartments, and the mixing and refrigerator area.

According to various tests, the mixing center, which includes refrigerator and food storage, is best located near the service door. The refrigerator door should open away from the mixing counter.

Lay A New Roof Over Old Shingles

It is rarely necessary to remove old roofing material when putting on a new roof of asphalt shingles. This eliminates the expense of tearing off the old roof and it results in a thicker overall roof covering. The old roof should be repaired sufficiently however, to provide a firm nailing base.

Shellac Holds Stain In Old Furniture

A coat of shellac often will prevent stain from bleeding through into paint when old furniture is being refinished, especially if the stain is 25 years old or more.

The National Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association recommends either shellac or one of the sealers made for stain. An enamel undercoat is then applied before the final finish is put on. Each undercoat is carefully sanded.

Vertical Panelled Draperies Popular

Now an entirely new concept in window treatment combines loveliness and convenience with sensible, down-to-earth economy and efficiency.

Sun Vertikal Panelled Draperies consist of vertical fabric panels operated by a single control rod. Open, panels do not obstruct view. Closed, they afford complete privacy.

Panels are made of beautiful, durable fabrics that resist dust and dirt. If they become soiled, they are easily removed and washed. For a change in decorative scheme, they may be replaced at low cost.

Vertikal Panelled Draperies are quickly and easily installed. They are custom-made . . . any length or width. They may be one solid color, or any of 1000's of color combinations. 25 beautiful decorator colors to choose from.

These versatile draperies may also be used on French doors, as partitions or as decorative panels.

SHARPENING A FILE

Let Comfort Set Kitchen Sink Height

In modernizing a kitchen it is worthwhile to consider some of the dimensions for comfort devised by experts. Even if you try such dimensions out and disagree with them, they will serve a useful purpose in reminding you to plan work surfaces and shelves at heights best suited to your use.

The average woman is supposed to find a 32-inch height for a mixing surface to be the most comfortable. She favors a 36-inch height for the kitchen range. She wants the bottom of the kitchen sink 32 inches from the floor.

Some home makers object to such variations in height because of appearances. They get the idea from pictures that all work surfaces should be on a level. But comfort should dictate and the housewife can determine that herself.

No shelf in a kitchen should be higher than 72 inches from the floor. This may be too high for most women, but sturdy kitchen stools and ladders solve that problem.

Make Can Thief-Proof

Galvanized steel cans are easily painted if the surface is first wiped with a cloth dampened in a half-and half mixture of vinegar and water. This will cause the paint to adhere securely to this rust-resistnat metal.
